Empty Place at Every Table American Thanksgiving Fraught with Mourning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With heavy hearts and prayerful resolve, Americans prepare to observe Thanksgiving Day while still mourning the death of President John F. Kennedy.
"Our president's death has created an empty place at every dinner table, said a New Yorker busily shopping for Thursday's dinner.
The "empty place" is surely to be more keenly felt at Hyannis Port, Mass., where the Kennedy family will gather.

Mrs. Kennedy, the President's widow, has announced plans to fly to Hyannis Port Thanksgiving Day with her two children.
Perhaps the nation's mood was best summed up by the Rev. John W. Regan, a curate at St. Francis Xavier church in Hyannis Port, when he said last Sunday:
"Here in America, this Thanksgiving will be different. This year, as the Pilgrims did we will turn again to God. We have a great deal to be thankful for—the men who fought and died for us in the hot wars and in the cold war. We should be grateful for the great men God has given us."

Senate Opens Probe into Assassination

FBI Information Funneled into Judiciary Panel
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee, reportedly in cooperation with the Justice Department, has launched an investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy.
Sources in a position to know said that the Justice Department already has begun funneling information from FBI agents to the committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.
Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, top GOP member of the committee, told newsmen he expected public hearings next month before Congress takes a Christmas recess.

Dirksen told the Senate Tuesday night that a full-scale investigation by the Judiciary Committee had been approved by Senate leaders of both parties.
The inquiry will cover not only the assassination of Kennedy last Friday as he rode in a motorcade through Dallas, but also the subsequent slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, by Jack Ruby, a Dallas night club operator.

Defense lawyer Tom Howard of Dallas said the highly emotional Ruby had settled down somewhat since the shooting in the City Hall basement as police (Continued on Page 2)

Newspaper Says FBI To Reveal Data on Slaying

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas News said today that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is expected to make public a mass of evidence assembled by officers investigating the assassination of President Kennedy.
It said Hoover is expected to announce, probably this week that:
1. The evidence shows conclusively that Lee Harvey Oswald fired the shots which killed Kennedy and seriously wounded Texas Gov. John Connally here last Friday.
2. There is no proof of a Communist conspiracy.
3. Investigators lack evidence which would prove that Oswald had help and they will remain alert for anything which would shed more light on the case.

TOP OF THE MENU — Turkey will top the menu for many holiday meals throughout the country tomorrow as families gather for Thanksgiving. The white gobblers pictured above are part of a 30,000 flock owned by the Howard Thomas Farms, Route 2. A worker at the Thomas Farm said about 26,000 "were dressed" for the holiday tomorrow. The remainder will be kept until a few days before Christmas.

Ohio Regents Board Asks $64 Million for Colleges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's new Board of Regents has recommended that the legislature allocate $64.1 million for capital improvements at 17 colleges, universities and technical and research centers.
The funds would be raised from sale of the first bonds issued under the $250 million capital improvements bond issue approved by the voters Nov. 5.
The regents, at a meeting Tuesday, adopted a program asking legislative approval of the first $100 million worth of bonds—$70 million going for higher education facilities and the remainder for public schools, conservation and state facilities.
Legislators will take up the board's program when they reconvene next week. The proposal will be included in a capital improvements bill being formulated by the State Finance Department.
Board Chairman Harold Oyster of Marietta said the program approved by the regents includes nearly $6 million to be held in reserve and distributed as needed.
Ohio State University would get the largest allocation—$18,752,900. Kent State University at $8,494,000, would get the second largest amount, followed by Ohio University, $7,320,500.
Other allocations (in order of size) include:
Bowling Green State University $6,496,500; Miami University, $6,347,000; Cuyahoga County Engineering School, $3,000,000; University of Akron, $2,750,000; Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster, $2,524,000; Central State College, $1,578,000; University of Toledo, $1,000,000.
Also, Cuyahoga County Community College, $1,000,000; Lorain County Community College, $1,000,000; Bowling Green Technical Institute at Rossford $1,000,000; Cuyahoga County Technical Center, $750,000; University of Cincinnati, $595,000, and Youngstown University, $500,000.
The Board of Regents also would get $1,000,000 for use in developing a "master plan" for higher education. (Continued on Page 10)

Kennedy Mimic Shelves Spoof

NEW YORK (AP) — Vaughn Meader, who rose to fame with his recordings spoofing Kennedy and his family, says he never expects to do the imitation again.
Meader said through his manager Tuesday that in respect for the late President, he has requested postponement of two night club appearances scheduled for later this month and next.
In his night club routine, Meader devoted about five minutes of his hour-long stint on stage doing imitations of Kennedy.
She will stay over the holiday weekend, returning to the White House Monday to complete plans for moving out to make way for the family of President Johnson.
Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will probably finish moving Thursday of next week. It is expected she will take up residence in Washington.
Before they came to the White House in January 1961, the Kennedys lived in a narrow red brick house in Georgetown.
It is understood that Mrs. Kennedy will rent or buy another house not too far away.

All Kennedy Aides Retained by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday that nobody in the late President John F. Kennedy's staff has handed in a resignation to President Johnson.
The new President, the White House said, is standing on his word that he is leaving to each of Kennedy's former top assistants to determine whether he wishes to continue to serve the incoming administration.

New President Raps Teaching Of Hate, Evil

Safeguards Asked On Civil Rights; Tax Cut Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation and the world today that the ideas and ideals of John F. Kennedy "must and will be translated into effective action."
The new President appealed at the same time for "an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence."
In a 1,500-word address prepared for a joint session of the Senate and House, Johnson specifically called for early congressional action to set up new civil rights safeguards and enact an $11-billion tax cut.
"No memorial oration or eulogy, could more eloquently honor President Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought," Johnson said.
And he said, "No act of ours could more fittingly continue the work of President Kennedy than the earliest passage of the tax bill for which he fought."
The new chief executive said: "This is no time for delay—it is a time for action."
Johnson opened his address by saying:
"All I have I would have given gladly not to be standing here today."
Johnson, who called the assassination of President Kennedy "the foulest deed of our time," declared that Kennedy must be commemorated in actions.
"Our most immediate tasks," Johnson said, "are here on this hill," meaning in Congress.
Johnson appealed for united effort by a nation that goes forward "in action, in tolerance and mutual understanding." In one of his most emotional passages Johnson asserted:
"The time has come for Americans of all races and creeds and political beliefs to understand and respect one another. Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence. Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law, and those who pour venom into our nation's bloodstream."
Johnson expressed the hope that "the tragedy and torment of these terrible days will and us together in new fellowship."
"Let us here highly resolve," he said, "that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did not live or die in vain. And on this Thanksgiving eve, as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing let us unite in those familiar and cherished words: 'America, America, God shed his grace on thee and crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.'"
Johnson, the first southern President since Andrew Johnson succeeded the assassinated Abraham Lincoln, left no doubt about his commitment to the cause of civil rights.
"We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights," he said. "We have (Continued on Page 2)

Daddy Won't Be at Caroline's Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is Caroline Kennedy's sixth birthday. She had expected to have an ice cream-and-cake party in her White House home for the third year in a row.
She could have expected her smiling, handsome father to come and watch the fun for at least a moment. He always did.
She probably had her party dress all ready. White House emissaries had bought the party favors.
Five days ago, Caroline and her brother John Jr., were suddenly taken to their grandmother Auchincloss' for dinner.
They were back in their own beds at 4:30 a.m. when a Nav ambulance pulled up to the big front portico of their home amid television floodlights and their mother came up the steps with blood spattered on her clothes.
Next day, White House spokesmen said, Caroline and her brother learned the news that meant their father would come to no more of their happy parties.
Their mother took them by the hand into the huge East Room where they had watched dancing and receptions and entertainment and where their father had stood stiffly in the doorway while the scarlet-coated Marine Band they loved played "Hail to the Chief."
This time, there were black ribbons on the huge, glittering crystal chandeliers and a big coffin stood in the center of the room.
Their mother took them by the hand—in their pale blue coats, red shoes and white socks—to ride in a long parade to the Capitol. When they climbed the long steps with her, the coffin was there again draped with a big American flag.
Next day they drove with their nurse and met their mother at the church and went inside with her to listen to prayers and speeches. The coffin was there again.
After darkness fell Tuesday night, Mrs. Kennedy took Caroline to her father's grave for the first time.
For about 10 minutes they stood alone in the soft blue glow of the flickering eternal light, and then went home—a home they would soon leave.
The grieving Kennedy family will gather as they have for years at the big ocean front home of the late President's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, at Hyannis Port, Mass.
Mrs. Kennedy and the children will fly to Cape Cod on Thanksgiving morning aboard the Kennedy family plane "Caroline."

Domer Case Verdict Due

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Whether Robert K. Domer, 43-year-old Canton businessman, should live or die was being considered today by a three-judge panel that heard his 19-day first degree murder trial.

In closing statements Tuesday, Stark County Prosecutor Norman J. Putnam and his assistant, David Dowd Jr., asked for the death penalty, saying Domer burned Howard F. Riddle, 45-year-old Akron fruit peddler, to death in Domer's car April 23. They contend he did so to fake his own death so his beneficiaries could collect $288,000 in life insurance.

Final arguments dealt primarily with whether Riddle was dead before being burned in Domer's flaming car, which was discovered April 23 off a country road dividing Stark and Wayne counties.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is Caroline Kennedy's sixth birthday. She had expected to have an ice cream-and-cake party in her White House home for the third year in a row.

She could have expected her smiling, handsome father to come and watch the fun for at least a moment. He always did.

She probably had her party dress all ready. White House emissaries had bought the party favors.

Five days ago, Caroline and her brother John Jr., were suddenly taken to their grandmother Auchincloss' for dinner.

They were back in their own beds at 4:30 a.m. when a Nav ambulance pulled up to the big front portico of their home amid television floodlights and their mother came up the steps with blood spattered on her clothes.

Next day, White House spokesmen said, Caroline and her brother learned the news that meant their father would come to no more of their happy parties.

Their mother took them by the hand into the huge East Room where they had watched dancing and receptions and entertainment and where their father had stood stiffly in the doorway while the scarlet-coated Marine Band they loved played "Hail to the Chief."

This time, there were black ribbons on the huge, glittering crystal chandeliers and a big coffin stood in the center of the room.

Their mother took them by the hand—in their pale blue coats, red shoes and white socks—to ride in a long parade to the Capitol. When they climbed the long steps with her, the coffin was there again draped with a big American flag.

Next day they drove with their nurse and met their mother at the church and went inside with her to listen to prayers and speeches. The coffin was there again.

After darkness fell Tuesday night, Mrs. Kennedy took Caroline to her father's grave for the first time.

For about 10 minutes they stood alone in the soft blue glow of the flickering eternal light, and then went home—a home they would soon leave.

The grieving Kennedy family will gather as they have for years at the big ocean front home of the late President's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy and the children will fly to Cape Cod on Thanksgiving morning aboard the Kennedy family plane "Caroline."

She will stay over the holiday weekend, returning to the White House Monday to complete plans for moving out to make way for the family of President Johnson.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will probably finish moving Thursday of next week. It is expected she will take up residence in Washington.

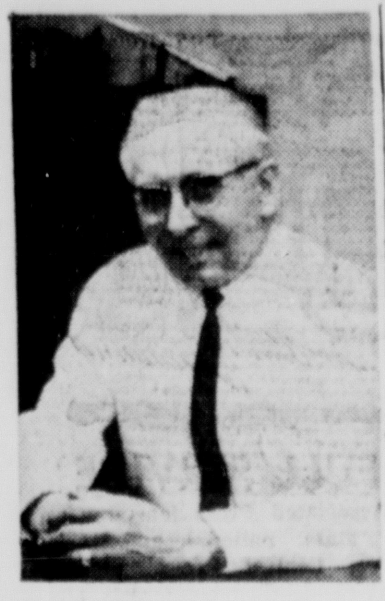

Before they came to the White House in January 1961, the Kennedys lived in a narrow red brick house in Georgetown.

It is understood that Mrs. Kennedy will rent or buy another house not too far away.

Local Banker Observes 50th Anniversary

Thanksgiving Eve 1963 has a very special meaning to the Leland E. Pontius household at 476 N. Court St. It was 50 years ago today that Mr. Pontius began his long career with The Third National Bank of Circleville.

The local banker's early days as bookkeeper at the financial institution has led him to his present position as vice president. Pontius was honored today by other employees at the bank. A gift of appreciation was presented to him.

In celebrating his golden anniversary, the native Pickaway Countian recalled that his first promotion was from bookkeeper (which entailed many duties) to that of a teller. Later he was made assistant cashier and finally was elevated to the vice presidency, succeeding the late Clark Will.

A graduate of Bliss Business College, Pontius has been associated with banking all of his life. "The bank is my home away from home," he jests.

PONTIUS holds the distinction of being the only living member of the local BPO Elks Lodge to have held the Exalted Ruler's post for two terms. He was also a long-time secretary of the lodge.

Although he and his wife, Mabel Stage Pontius, reside at their home on N. Court St., much of their leisure time is spent at a 190-acre farm in Walnut Twp. Pontius has owned and managed the farm for several years.

Pontius is the second employee of The Third National to have completed 50 years of service. The other is M. E. (Mac) Noggle.

New President...

Johnson called upon the Congress to enact a civil rights bill that will help "eliminate from this nation every trace of discrimination and oppression based upon race or color."

He said there could be no greater source of strength to the nation both at home and abroad.

Touching upon foreign affairs, Johnson promised the United States "will keep its commitments from South Vietnam to West Berlin." He added:

"We will be unceasing in the search for peace; resourceful in our pursuit of areas of agreement even with those with whom we differ, and generous and loyal to those who join with us in common cause."

He said "those who test our courage will find it strong and those who seek our friendship will find it honorable."

In a general assertion of foreign policy, Johnson said:

"Let all the world know, and not misunderstand, that I rededicate this government to the unswerving support of the United Nations — to the honorable and determined execution of our commitments to our allies — to the maintenance of military strength second to none — to the defense of the strength and stability of the dollar — to the expansion of our foreign trade — to the reinforcement of our programs of mutual assistance and cooperation in Asia and Africa — and to our Alliance For Progress in this hemisphere."

Appealing for help from all Americans in carrying out his new responsibilities, Johnson said:

"An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help; I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans."

Declaring that the nation "has experienced a profound shock," Johnson said it is a national duty of this time "to do away with uncertainty and to show that we are capable of decisive action — that from the brutal loss of our leader we will derive not weakness but strength — that we can and will act and act now."

Johnson conferred Tuesday with eight foreign visitors of renown, met with Latin-American delegates to an Alliance for Progress conference and delivered a three-minute television speech pledging continued U.S. support for the alliance.

In separate meetings with Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British prime minister, Ludwig Erhard, chancellor of West Germany, and Anastas Mikoyan, vice chairman of the Soviet Union's Council of Ministers, Johnson indicated a strong penchant for personal diplomacy.

One White House source said the President emphasized that "he looks forward to personal discussions with leaders of the world about the difficult and urgent problems that face us."

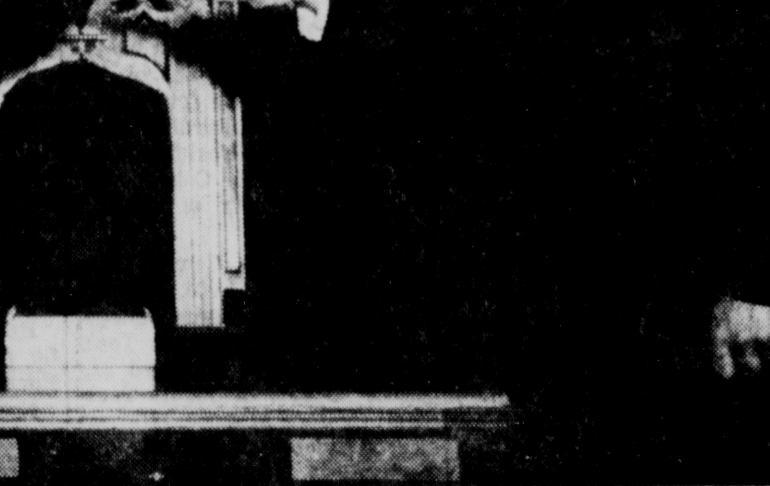

The source said Johnson neither ruled out nor ruled in a meeting of this sort with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

In his brief tenure, Johnson already has begun planning early 1964 meetings with Home, Erhard and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

House passage Tuesday of a bill to provide emergency financing of federal departments and agencies through next Jan. 31 seemed to signal a move to wind up the congressional session by mid-December.

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Hubert H. Humphrey predicted that Congress will still put several important bills on Johnson's desk before it quits.

Among these he listed a measure to provide federal aid for academic facilities at colleges, extension of the National Defense Education Act and aid to impacted school areas, and authorization legislation for the foreign aid program and Peace Corps.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailings

Charles H. Walters, Circleville postmaster, said today early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting the mail delivered before Christmas.

Post office facilities have been expanded, ample help will be available, and everything is being geared up to handle a record Christmas mail this year, Walters said.

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time. Even though Christmas is a month away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the post office from now on, the postmaster observed.

The postmaster advises, "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

HE continued, "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the post office before attempting to mail them. The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where packages are mailed from."

He also advises sending Christmas cards by first class mail using the new five-cent Christmas tree stamps and double check to see that complete addresses, return addresses and ZIP code numbers are on all envelopes.

He closed by requesting that all Christmas mail going long distances be sent before Dec. 10. Local delivery mail should be sent at least a week before Christmas.

Cairn terriers got their name from their ability to squeeze into rock piles for foxes and wildcats.

Crash Mars Holiday Trip

A Connecticut family's Thanksgiving holiday was marred by a traffic accident early today 2½ miles east of Circleville on Route 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold Sr. and their six-month-old son were enroute from their home in Hartford, Conn., to Indiana.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns, reported Arnold said their youngster had fallen off the front seat. As he reached for the baby, he lost control of the car, going off the road and into a ditch.

The car turned completely over, according to Deputy Kerns. He said it was demolished.

All three passengers were taken to Berger Hospital where they were treated for scalp lacerations and abrasions.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailings

Charles H. Walters, Circleville postmaster, said today early mailing of all Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting the mail delivered before Christmas.

Post office facilities have been expanded, ample help will be available, and everything is being geared up to handle a record Christmas mail this year, Walters said.

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time. Even though Christmas is a month away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the post office from now on, the postmaster observed.

The postmaster advises, "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

HE continued, "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the post office before attempting to mail them. The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where packages are mailed from."

He also advises sending Christmas cards by first class mail using the new five-cent Christmas tree stamps and double check to see that complete addresses, return addresses and ZIP code numbers are on all envelopes.

He closed by requesting that all Christmas mail going long distances be sent before Dec. 10. Local delivery mail should be sent at least a week before Christmas.

Cairn terriers got their name from their ability to squeeze into rock piles for foxes and wildcats.

Crash Mars Holiday Trip

A Connecticut family's Thanksgiving holiday was marred by a traffic accident early today 2½ miles east of Circleville on Route 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold Sr. and their six-month-old son were enroute from their home in Hartford, Conn., to Indiana.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns, reported Arnold said their youngster had fallen off the front seat. As he reached for the baby, he lost control of the car, going off the road and into a ditch.

The car turned completely over, according to Deputy Kerns. He said it was demolished.

All three passengers were taken to Berger Hospital where they were treated for scalp lacerations and abrasions.

Fun Comes Early To the Catskills

This father and son are using the T-bar lift to get to the top of the main slope at a Catskill resort.

By SANDO BOLOGNA
Central Press Association
Correspondent

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—Winter, with its invigorating outdoor fun, always comes early in the Catskills Mountains. Through the magic of refrigeration, artificial ice provides skating very early in the autumn at the Catskills' first outdoor skating rink situated at the 1,000-acre Grossinger's.

Since the end of World War II, Sullivan and Ulster Counties have developed into a prime winter resort section. At least 50 ski trails, each different, each challenging, dot the 986 square mile vacation-convention counties.

The trails range from gentle novice rises to well-designed professional slopes. Some are on the resorts; others are at nearby public ski centers. The latest in snow-making machinery is put into operation before the official arrival of winter so that ideal skiing conditions can prevail. A few hotels have indoor skating rinks, in addition to their frozen ponds.

Upwards of 400,000 people come to the Catskills during the winter months, according to the Sullivan County Hotel Association. Until the development of winter activities, the Catskills were widely known as a summer vacation spot.

Fourteen large hotels with a total of 5,000 rooms feature winter activities. In addition, about 500 rooms are open for winter vacationists in the motels.

During the past decade, public ski slopes have been developed at the Cathalia Ski Center, Davos, and Holiday Mountain. Nearly 5,500 skiers can be accommodated.

Hotels, such as the huge Concord that open year-round, have been competing with each other for tourist dollars by offering swank golf courses, large indoor swim pools and extensive health clubs. Now the trend is to build ski trails and skating rinks.

The resorts provide rope tows, double chair lifts and T-bar lifts. There are also toboggan slides, ski patrols and ski schools.

The new Raleigh Hotel in South Fallsburg now only accents winter sports, but keeps open its new indoor skating rink throughout the year.

The small, family-operated Hotel Gibber at Kiameskha Lake has completed a new indoor skate rink as an extra for the popular activities on the property's small lake.

At the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville, an extensive skating and skiing schedule has been planned for the guests, particularly for the honeymooners. For those who prefer slower activities, there are snowshoe hikes and sleigh rides.

At Grossinger's, in Grossinger, N. Y., barrel-jumping events with nationally-known competitors have been a feature at the 200 by 100-foot rink. Ice revues with professional headliners are staged during the eight months of outdoor skating.

Federal Jury Acquits Man Of Extortion

CLEVELAND (AP)—A federal court jury acquitted Samuel S. Fekett, former Youngstown law director, Tuesday of charges he extorted or attempted to extort money from contractors doing business with the City of Youngstown in 1960.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated only a half hour.

U. S. District Court Judge James C. Connell said the jury had done the only thing which it could do in the case because, he said, the prosecution had failed to establish an important element of the case.

Judge Connell, in an 80-minute charge to the jury had stressed that the extortion charges would be in a state and not a federal court if they were not based on an allegation of willful interference or attempt at interference with interstate commerce. The judge indicated in charging the jury that he felt the prosecution had slighted the interstate-commerce angle in presenting its case.

Fekett admitted under cross-examination last week that he accepted a $750 check from Nick Di Margo, an engineer for the Syro Steel Co. of Girard, and that the money was for legal work. The former law director said, however, he had no records of performing any legal work for Syro Steel.

Kennedy's Thanksgiving Order Is Hailed by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has urged that the Thanksgiving proclamation of John Fitzgerald Kennedy be read in the nation's churches Thursday as a memorial to the slain President.

Johnson issued a brief statement noting that the proclamation was among Kennedy's last messages to his fellow countrymen.

He asked that churches, newspapers, radio and television stations include the proclamation in their recognition of the holiday.

Here is the text of the Kennedy proclamation:

Over three centuries ago our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts far from home in a lonely wilderness set aside a time for thanksgiving. On the appointed day, they gave reverent thanks for their safety, for the health of their children, for the fertility of their fields, for the laws which bound them together and for the faith which united them under their God.

So, too when the colonies achieved their independence, our first president in the first year of his first administration proclaimed Nov. 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of almighty God" and called upon the people of the new republic to "beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

And so too in the midst of America's tragic Civil War, President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday of November,

1863, as a day to renew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields" for our "national strength and vigor" and for our "singular deliverance and blessings."

Much time has passed since the first colonists came to rocky shores and dark forests of an unknown continent, much time since President Washington led a young people into the experience of nationhood, much time since President Lincoln saw the American nation through the ordeal of fraternal war — and in these years our population, our plenty and our power have all grown apace. Today we are a nation of nearly two hundred million souls, stretching from coast to coast, on into the Pacific and north toward the arctic, a nation enjoying the fruits of an ever-expanding agriculture and industry and achieving standards of living unknown in previous history. We give our humble thanks for this.

Yet, as our power has grown, so has our peril. Today we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith we inherit from our forefathers—for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility, which they possessed and which we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them.

Let us therefore proclaim our gratitude to Providence for manifold blessings — let us be humbly thankful for inherited ideals — and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human beings throughout the world.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved Dec. 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862, 5 S.C. 87 B, designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 28, 1963, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist.

Thanks to God

Americans think of Thanksgiving Day as distinctly indigenous to this hemisphere — and it is. Not that it was an American conception. Since time immemorial, in many countries, the harvest season has been a festive time.

Men have brought home the good gifts of the soil with rejoicing and with gratitude for their blessings. Thanksgiving Day is the lineal descendant of those celebrations whose beginnings are lost in the faraway past, but it has its own special character.

One reason for this is that Americans can look back at the first Thanksgiving Day, seeing it in its solid frame of time and place, and feel that it was woven out of the virtue and genius of their forebears.

The colonists who survived that bitter first winter at Plymouth and gathered on December 13, 1621, to express their gratitude because the corn harvest had been good, were brave, enduring men, the first of the pioneers who were to conquer a continental wilderness.

Their harvest home was no pagan revel, though the festival went on for three days. It was an occasion for giving thanks to God.

During the more than three centuries since then the day has evolved into a national holiday. That, in its way, is American too — as American as turkey with cranberry sauce, corn and potatoes, pumpkin pie.

In Thanksgiving Day, and the manner in which it is celebrated, the nature of the American people can be read. And on this joyous day Americans still find time not only to appreciate their unmatched material blessings but to pray in humility for the God-given strength that made them possible.

Antique Shopping Is Hazard

By LOUIS MILLNER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Antique shopping is one of the hazards a husband must expect when he takes his wife to a convention in New Orleans.

Antique stores are not on the sightseeing tours but any woman can find them.

Set a woman down in an uncharted wilderness and in a few minutes she can be found prying spinning wheels at Ye Old Shoppe in some hamlet. Place her blindfolded in New York City and soon she will be at a 3rd Avenue antique shop.

By the time the husband has found the convention headquarters here and has an identification label pinned to his coat lapel, his wife already has window-shopped half a dozen stores and earmarked items for further consideration.

While the delegate is being exhorted by the convention speakers to put his shoulder to the wheel or help put his house in order, the wife is rummaging through silver inkwells, brass firecreens and marble-topped tables.

Among some groups, antique buying is a game with a definite set of rules.

If you play the game, rule No. 1 is not to announce your intention upon entering the store. Go in casually. You are "just looking, thank you."

The next move is to price one or more items, depending upon how much time is left. Then start to leave. Now is the time to start to work. "Oh, by the way, how much are those old pewter candlesticks?"

The dealers, relieved to learn the actual object of affection, quotes a price. There may be discussion, offers, counter-offers before the ultimate sale.

A bit of advice—be on guard. A shopper once entered a store with the intention of working up to a quotation on a large mirror in a gilded frame.

Observing rule No. 1, she asked the price of the first object in sight, an enormous bookcase. Then, stunned by an unexpectedly low price, she forgot her battle plans and bought the bookcase. The bookcase now covers the spot where the mirror would have gone.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — The 10-nation health insurance plan for the U.S. dollar, and other principal world currencies, stood its first real test with marked success.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Europe's central banks acted together and quickly to prevent any run on the dollar after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Without the agreed plan to move simultaneously into the foreign exchange markets to prevent such a run, the dollar might have been under pressure.

This is because foreigners hold so many surplus dollars, built up in recent years as a result of big deficits in our balance of payments in international trade and monetary dealings.

These dollars, if dumped on the market for gold or other currencies, could have shaken the value of the dollar — the world's chief monetary reserve as a supplement to gold — and a mainstay of America's healthy economy.

An assassination is the kind of unsettling news on which speculators sometimes feed.

The 10-nation pact to guard against speculative runs followed the October 1960 gold rush which shook the dollar. The price of gold was run up temporarily to $40 an ounce on London's free market, compared to the official U.S. Treasury price of $35.

Rumors of devaluation of a dollar sent speculators rushing to turn in their dollars for gold. The rumors were scotched, first by President Dwight D. Eisenhower and then by President Kennedy.

The monetary insurance pact that subsequently was devised has worked this year to hold the drain of U.S. gold to a minimum although the balance of payments deficit is still running too high for comfort.

The London gold price, $35.07 Friday, went up on the day after the assassination to $35.11, but dropped Monday to $35.09 and held at that rate Tuesday morning.

The dollar itself held steady on foreign exchanges both Saturday and Monday.

The 10-nation pact worked this way:

The Federal Reserve quickly moved into the market to buy dollars, offering large blocks of German marks, British pounds, Dutch guilders, Swiss francs and Canadian dollars.

The Federal Reserve holds such blocks under the 10-nation agreement by which such currencies are swapped to create reserves for any such emergency. Europe's central banks also stepped in immediately after news of Kennedy's death with offers of support for the dollar.

Any flight from the dollar would be met by credits of European national currencies for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to use if needed.

This left little room for speculators to operate.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A few weeks ago I noticed a small lump on the back of my daughter's neck and took her to the doctor for an examination. The doctor told me that the examination and the X-Ray revealed nothing and that I should not worry about it.

When he left the room, I read a note he had written on the chart. It said, "Mass on back. Lipoxia."

I am afraid of what this means. I can't tell him I read it. Can this be cancerous?

Mrs. M. K., Winnipeg

Dear Mrs. K.: Concern, rather than curiosity, frequently motivates people to peek at doctors' charts. Then they are usually more confused and anxious than ever because of their inability to understand or interpret technical terms.

The handwriting of most doctors being what it is, it is reasonable to assume that your doctor wrote was not lipoxia, but "lipoma" which is a benign fatty tumor. It is not cancerous.

The assurance your doctor gave you should have relieved your anxiety. You will probably feel better if you tell him that you read the chart so that he can clarify his findings for you.

I am a 17-year-old girl. I hope this letter does not sound silly. My friends say I am ridiculous, but I must find out.

I am very nervous. I stare at people. When someone at school gets bawled out, I feel that I am always the guilty one.

My mother is very nervous. She says this will pass. I really need help, but no one seems to believe me.

N. C. Virginia

Dear Miss C.: There is nothing silly about your letter. Rather, it does reflect a mature recognition of an emotional problem and a desire to seek help for it.

Friends are not the ones to turn to for this help. Even your mother, devoted as she is, can give you only limited support during this period of emotional stress.

You should have the guidance of someone specially trained to handle psychological problems. Your doctor, your teacher, or your religious counselor will be most sympathetic and understanding if you discuss your problem with them. They can direct you to a therapist, or to a treatment center where your problems can be clarified for you.

You may find some comfort in the knowledge that adolescence normally is a period of emotional stress. Shyness, moodiness and rebellion are some of the common problems of adolescence.

Although your problems are not unique to most adolescents, they are unique to you. Seek the help you so clearly feel you need for your happiness.

Would you define "psychosomatic medicine"?

Big City Problem

The report of the President's advisory commission on the narcotics traffic should be coming along any time now, and when it does the fur should really begin to fly.

On one side of the argument about narcotics control there are some very vocal doctors, many of them concentrated in the New York City area. These doctors insist that the way to make inroads on narcotics addiction is to take the profit out of dope pushing. They would like to be able to prescribe controlled or "maintenance" doses of opium derivatives in free clinics, on the theory that this would prevent innumerable crimes of violence caused by junkies who are willing to kill in order to get the cash needed to buy a fix.

Doctors who have had experience in big cities can be quite persuasive in presenting their arguments for "physician control" of dope addicts. But the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, an overworked body of 926 agents who are attached to the U. S. Treasury Department, will argue at the drop of a hat that the doctors are suffering from an illusion caused by false "focalizing" of the problem.

The irony of the situation, according to U. S. Commissioner of Narcotics Henry L. Giordano, is that the nasty results of the dope traffic have become more visible as the statistics of addition have been shrinking.

Back at the turn of the century when the control of heroin, morphine and other opium derivatives were in the hands of physicians, there were an estimated 200,000 addicts in the country. This amounted to one out of every five hundred people in a total population of 100 million.

Today with 180 million people in the nation, there are some 46,000 known active addicts — a figure which should be upped, say, to 60,000 to include those who manage to elude the tabulators. By anybody's long division this means that there is one addict for every 3,000 people.

Quite a contrast, so Commissioner Giordano insists, to the figure for 1900.

What hides the import of the statistics, the Commissioner goes on to explain, is the fact that some 75 per cent of present-day addiction is concentrated in the three big urban districts of New York City, Los Angeles and Chicago.

The figure for New York is 46 per cent of the total. Los Angeles accounts for 15.6 per cent; Chicago represents 14.8 per cent, Detroit, with four per cent is a laggard fourth.

"What has happened over the years," says Commissioner Giordano, "is that dope has ceased to be a problem in the boondocks."

"Addiction, in 1900, was a universal geographical problem. You could buy opium derivatives in grocery stores in Texas. A town of 15,000 in population would have twenty or thirty addicts. But no longer. The supply in the small towns has been dried up. In the past fifteen years the Bureau of Narcotics has been able to close some thirty offices."

The big cities, however, represent a much tougher problem. But Commissioner Giordano doubts that the craving for dope abetted by the jungle atmosphere of big city slums makes criminals. It is the other way around, so he insists. "In California," he says, "it has been found that 80 per cent of the addicts had criminal records prior to their addiction. And this does not include those who have engaged in criminal activities as juveniles before the age of sixteen. The fact that it is the criminal who turns to dope, usually with his eyes quite open means that we are faced with a problem of anti-social behavior. This is what the doctors don't always recognize."

It will be interesting to see just how far the President's commission goes toward buying the Bureau of Narcotics point of view, which insists that the dope problem is primarily one of cutting down on the availability of heroin and morphine by good police work. The prospects are that the commission, headed by Judge E. Barrett Prettyman, will not exactly "see eye to eye with the Bureau. Yes the fur is almost sure to fly."

Letters To The Editor

EDITORS NOTE —We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

I have taken it upon myself to express my feelings toward our late president, John F. Kennedy.

The late John F. Kennedy was, to me, not only our president but one of the finest citizens to ever live in this world. He wanted nothing other than to have peace between his fellow-men and the people of the world.

I feel that he was like another great man, Abraham Lincoln. Like Mr. Lincoln, he loved to read books and all he wanted was peace to reign over the world.

It seems that he died like Mr. Lincoln also. A fatal shot rang out and pierced his head like that of Mr. Lincoln's.

Both were followed by presidents with the last name of Johnson. And it has been said they both look alike in a way.

I express my grave and deepest regrets to his wife and children. I know people all over the world mourn his death which was a tragic loss.

Yes, I mourn for him. But, too, I feel happiness for him because he has gone to his home where he will live forever. I think his death has brought people closer together in this period of sadness.

We were having an assembly at school that sad Friday afternoon. Shortly before it was over, the principal told us the shocking news.

Gasps came from about every student. We bowed our heads for a moment of silent prayer and no one made a sound.

I couldn't believe it was true. As I went through the halls to go home, there were teenagers crying openly, others were off in rooms to themselves and teachers walked about with grief-stricken faces.

Many teen-agers called our late president, as I did, their guide. He liked teen-agers and he seemed to understand them. His death is a great loss to them.

STEVEN B. THOMPSON
127 Pinckney St.

To the Editor:

My reaction to the assassination of John F. Kennedy was similar to most others, one of shock and disbelief.

Upon reflection, however, it is not altogether startling that such a horrible incident could occur for we have supposedly upstanding, intelligent men in our own community displaying the ugly head of bigotry and radicalism.

They will argue that they would never do, nor even advocate, such an extreme act, but they are not aware of the fact that such outliers or acts of radicalism serve to incite the less intelligent, or indeed possibly neurotic or psychotic, to an act of violence like we have just witnessed.

Radicalism is simply and purely the outward manifestation of inward anxiety which stems from the lack of inward security. If we, in this country, would become morally and inwardly secure, we would have nothing to fear from any outward force.

I am personally convinced that this man's purpose on earth was to serve as an incentive for us to begin to fill the near void of morality which is apparent in the world today.

Let us glean what we can from this vain, useless and wasteful act that struck at our very foundation of democratic government — one of law, rather than one of man. It is paradoxical that he should die as the result of the violence bred by the very forces which he fought so hard to keep from engulfing all of us.

Let us keep him in mind as a reminder that such forces, as he said, will only serve to divide and destroy us.

ROY H. HUFFER, JR.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The 10-nation health insurance plan for the U.S. dollar, and other principal world currencies, stood its first real test with marked success.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Europe's central banks acted together and quickly to prevent any run on the dollar after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Without the agreed plan to move simultaneously into the foreign exchange markets to prevent such a run, the dollar might have been under pressure.

This is because foreigners hold so many surplus dollars, built up in recent years as a result of big deficits in our balance of payments in international trade and monetary dealings.

These dollars, if dumped on the market for gold or other currencies, could have shaken the value of the dollar — the world's chief monetary reserve as a supplement to gold—and a mainstay of America's healthy economy.

An assassination is the kind of unsettling news on which speculators sometimes feed.

The 10-nation pact to guard against speculative runs followed the October 1960 gold rush which shook the dollar. The price of gold was run up temporarily to $40 an ounce on London's free market, compared to the official U.S. Treasury price of $35.

Rumors of devaluation of a dollar sent speculators rushing to turn in their dollars for gold. The rumors were scotched, first by President Dwight D. Eisenhower and then by President Kennedy.

The monetary insurance pact that subsequently was devised has worked this year to hold the drain of U.S. gold to a minimum although the balance of payments deficit is still running too high for comfort.

The London gold price, $35.07 Friday, went up on the day after the assassination to $35.11, but dropped Monday to $35.09 and held at that rate Tuesday morning.

The dollar itself held steady on foreign exchanges both Saturday and Monday.

The 10-nation pact worked this way:

The Federal Reserve quickly moved into the market to buy dollars, offering large blocks of German marks, British pounds, Dutch guilders, Swiss francs and Canadian dollars.

The Federal Reserve holds such blocks under the 10-nation agreement by which currencies are swapped to create reserves for any such emergency. Europe's central banks also stepped in immediately after news of Kennedy's death with offers of support for the dollar.

Any flight from the dollar would be met by credits of European national currencies for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to use if needed.

This left little room for speculators to operate.

Big City Problem

The report of the President's advisory commission on the narcotics traffic should be coming along any time now, and when it does the fur should really begin to fly.

On one side of the argument about narcotics control there are some very vocal doctors, many of them concentrated in the New York City area. These doctors insist that the way to make inroads on narcotics addiction is to take the profit out of dope pushing. They would like to be able to prescribe controlled or "maintenance" doses of opium derivatives in free clinics, on the theory that this would prevent innumerable crimes of violence caused by junkies who are willing to kill in order to get the cash needed to buy a fix.

Doctors who have had experience in big cities can be quite persuasive in presenting their arguments for "physician control" of dope addicts. But the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, an overworked body of 926 agents who are attached to the U. S. Treasury Department, will argue at the drop of a hat that the doctors are suffering from an illusion caused by false "focalizing" of the problem.

The irony of the situation, according to U. S. Commissioner of Narcotics Henry L. Giordano, is that the nasty results of the dope traffic have become more visible as the statistics of addiction have been shrinking.

Back at the turn of the century when the control of heroin, morphine and other opium derivatives were in the hands of physicians, there were an estimated 200,000 addicts in the country. This amounted to one out of every five hundred people in a total population of 100 million.

Today with 180 million people in the nation, there are some 46,000 known active addicts — a figure which should be upped, say, to 60,000 to include those who manage to elude the tabulators. By anybody's long division this means that there is one addict for every 3,000 people. Quite a contrast, so Commissioner Giordano insists, to the figure for 1900.

What hides the import of the statistics, the Commissioner goes on to explain, is the fact that some 75 per cent of present-day addiction is concentrated in the three big urban districts of New York City, Los Angeles and Chicago. The figure for New York is 46 per cent of the total. Los Angeles accounts for 15.6 per cent; Chicago represents 14.8 per cent; Detroit, with four per cent is a laggard fourth.

"What has happened over the years," says Commissioner Giordano, "is that dope has ceased to be a problem in the boondocks."

"Addiction, in 1900, was a universal geographical problem. You could buy opium derivatives in grocery stores in Texas. A town of 15,000 in population would have twenty or thirty addicts. But no longer. The supply in the small towns has been dried up. In the past fifteen years the Bureau of Narcotics has been able to close some thirty offices."

The big cities, however, represent a much tougher problem. But Commissioner Giordano doubts that the craving for dope abetted by the jungle atmosphere of big city slums makes criminals. It is the other way around, so he insists. "In California," he says, "it has been found that 80 per cent of the addicts had criminal records prior to their addiction. And this does not include those who have engaged in criminal activities as juveniles before the age of sixteen. The fact that it is the criminal who turns to dope, usually with his eyes quite open means that we are faced with a problem of anti-social behavior. This is what the doctors don't always recognize."

It will be interesting to see just how far the President's commission goes toward buying the Bureau of Narcotics point of view, which insists that the dope problem is primarily one of cutting down on the availability of heroin and morphine by good police work. The prospects are that the commission, headed by Judge E. Barrett Prettyman, will not exactly see eye to eye with the Bureau. Yet the fur is almost sure to fly.

Letters To The Editor

EDITORS NOTE —We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

I have taken it upon myself to express my feelings toward our late president, John F. Kennedy.

The late John F. Kennedy was, to me, not only our president but one of the finest citizens to ever live in this world. He wanted nothing other than to have peace between his fellow-men and the people of the world.

I feel that he was like another great man, Abraham Lincoln. Like Mr. Lincoln, he loved to read books and all he wanted was peace to reign over the world.

It seems that he died like Mr. Lincoln also. A fatal shot rang out and pierced his head like that of Mr. Lincoln's.

Both were followed by presidents with the last name of Johnson. And it has been said they both look alike in a way.

I express my grave and deepest regrets to his wife and children. I know people all over the world mourn his death which was a tragic loss.

Yes, I mourn for him. But, too, I feel happiness for him because he has gone to his home where he will live forever. I think his death has brought people closer together in this period of sadness.

We were having an assembly at school that sad Friday afternoon. Shortly before it was over, the principal told us the shocking news.

Gasps came from about every student. We bowed our heads for a moment of silent prayer and no one made a sound.

I couldn't believe it was true. As I went through the halls to go home, there were teen-agers crying openly, others were off in rooms to themselves and teachers walked about with grief-stricken faces. Many teen-agers called our late president, as I did, their guide. He liked teen-agers and he seemed to understand them. His death is a great loss to them.

STEVEN B. THOMPSON
127 Pinckney St.

To the Editor:

My reaction to the assassination of John F. Kennedy was similar to most others, one of shock and disbelief.

Upon reflection, however, it is not altogether startling that such a horrible incident could occur for we have supposedly outstanding, intelligent men in our own community displaying the ugly head of bigotry and radicalism.

They will argue that they would never do, nor even advocate, such an extreme act, but they are not aware of the fact that such outcries or acts of radicalism serve to incite the less intelligent, or indeed possibly neurotic or psychotic, to an act of violence like we have just witnessed.

Radicalism is simply and purely the outward manifestation of inward anxiety which stems from the lack of inward security. If we, in this country, would become morally and inwardly secure, we would have nothing to fear from any outward force.

I am personally convinced that this man's purpose on earth was to serve as an incentive for us to begin to fill the near void of morality which is apparent in the world today.

Let us glean what we can from this vain, useless and wasteful act that struck at our very foundation of democratic government — one of law, rather than one of man. It is paradoxical that he should die as the result of the violence bred by the very forces which he fought so hard to keep from engulfing all of us.

Let us keep him in mind as a reminder that such forces, as he said, will only serve to divide and destroy us.

ROY H. HUFFER, JR.

Hocking Dems Reprimanded In Poll Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown Tuesday reprimanded two Democratic members of the Hocking County Board of Elections for their support of a ballot which he said should never have been counted.

He gave a ruling to the board, breaking its tie vote on a disputed ballot case in the Nov. 5 race for Logan city treasurer, declaring the ballot should not have been counted as a vote for either candidate.

The ballot was sent to Brown after a recount by the board. The recount resulted in a vote of 1,123 for Mrs. Edna J. Anthony, a Democrat, and 1,124 for Mrs. Juliet S. White, the Republican incumbent.

Brown said the ballot was marked with an "X" in the space where the words "For Treasurer" appears. He added that Mrs. Anthony's name appeared immediately below the office title and he held that the voter had placed his "X" entirely within the space where the word "For Treasurer" appeared and that no part of it extended into the portion bearing Mrs. Anthony's name.

Phil A. Henderson and John Ayers, both Democratic members of the board, had voted to count the ballot for Mrs. Anthony. The Republican members, Joe Brown and Mrs. Erma Myers, opposed it. Thus the matter went to Secretary of State Brown.

Ayers is chairman of the Hocking County Democratic organization, and Henderson is a Democratic political leader.

"The law clearly and beyond question provides that this ballot does not constitute a vote for either Edna J. Anthony or for Juliet S. White," Brown wrote the board. "I am unable to see your board should assert that a ballot so marked should be counted."

In issuing the reprimand to the Democratic board members, Brown said:

"I feel I must add that the two members of the board of elections who have attempted to have this ballot counted had carried their partisanship beyond that point which is proper for an election official. When a person is appointed to a board of elections he is expected to place partisan considerations behind him and administer the election law fairly.

"If these two members of your board are unable to carry out their duty without permitting their partisanship to interfere as in this instance, I will be compelled to remove them from the board of elections."

Fortune in Art Labeled Tomatoes

LONDON (AP) — A fortune in paintings arrived in London Monday night disguised as tomatoes.

Insurance men valued them at $10 million. Spanish galleries sent them for exhibit at the Royal Academy, beginning Dec. 7.

All the paintings are by Francisco Goya, one of whose portraits of the duke of Wellington was stolen from Britain's National Gallery in 1961.

The 95 cases traveled from Spain in two railroad cars. From the outside they looked exactly like 37 others in the train, all loaded with tomatoes.

Crow Gripes About Jail's Phone Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — J. Harvey Crow, disbarred attorney jailed for contempt of the Ohio Supreme Court, complained Tuesday that he has been denied use of a telephone to call a lawyer.

The high court sentenced Crow last Tuesday to Franklin County Jail for 30 days for failing to attend a court hearing and continuing to practice law without a license. Crow also was fined $1,500.

Crow asked the supreme court to issue an order requiring his jailers to allow him access to a telephone. Sheriff's deputies said they would call any attorney Crow asked them to contact.

Before sentencing, Crow told the court that he had contacted more than 100 attorneys and law firms in a futile effort to obtain counsel for his contempt case.

Crow also complained that a case for his glasses had been taken from him. The supreme court has under consideration a request by Crow to release him from jail under bond pending an application for rehearing of his case, a step needed before appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

DOESN'T GROW ON TREES — It's been said that "money doesn't grow on trees" but the General Guild Bazaar, sponsored by various guilds of Berger Hospital, will make someone almost believe this saying when a miniature Christmas tree trimmed with $100 is presented Dec. 6. Proceeds will go towards the purchase of hospital equipment and supplies. Making a donation to the fund is Mrs. Marvin Jenkins (right). Mrs. Wendell Turner (left) is employed at Sharff's, W. Main St., where the tree is on display.

General Guild Bazaar Nears

The annual General Guild Bazaar of Berger Hospital will be held from 3-9 p. m. Dec. 6 at the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

A smorgasbord supper will be served from 5-7 p. m. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The public is invited.

Mrs. William Blanton is bazaar chairman assisted by Mrs. Carlos Alvarez and Mrs. Wayne Griffith, co-chairmen.

Mrs. Don Woodward and Mrs. William Stout are members of the money tree committee;

Mrs. Charles P. Brackett and Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson, publicity; Mrs. Jack White, Mrs. Gene Barthelmas and Mrs. Joe Bartz, smorgasbord.

Many unusual and useful items will be sold by individual guilds.

The money tree is on display in Sharff's window. Any member needing more tickets may obtain them by calling GR 4-4036 or GR 4-5941.

Santa will be at the Bazaar this year to have his picture taken while talking with each child.

DAC Holds Luncheon Meet

Mrs. Clarence McAbee and Mrs. W. L. Mack of Circleville, Mrs. Martin Cromley, Mrs. T. L. Cromley and Mrs. Hewitt Cromley of Ashville, attended a luncheon and program last week of Old Trails Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, in the Seneca Hotel, Columbus.

Miss Mary Alice Stein, Worthington, a member of the unit, was the speaker. She reviewed the book, "The Fourth Floor" by Earl T. Smith, former United States Ambassador to Cuba who represented this country from 1957-1959, the time Castro's July 26 movement gained victory.

Miss Stein said the "Fourth Floor" identifies the State Department offices of secondary officials who determine the Latin American policy. The author took the office to learn about problems with the Batista regime. He visited Cuba and presented his credentials to president Batista. He made an intensive study into the background of Castro.

In her review, the speaker mentioned the broken promises, deceptions and the removal of Batista who left Cuba, for Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic. After his departure, Castro called a general strike and demanded Dr. Manuel Urrutia be installed as president.

The author tells of the fall of the government and how the mob took over. The first responsibility of the United States was to evacuate more than 2,000 American tourists and school children who were stranded in Cuba. He emphasized the fact that communism has established a base 90 miles from the shores of the United States.

Symposium on Christmas Decorations Presented

"Symposium on Christmas Decorations" was presented by Mrs. Doyle Painter at the regular meeting of Monday Club, held this week in the trustees room at Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Painter first described the traditional decorations with in the home for this inspiring holiday. She said we should prepare ourselves, our hearts and our homes to welcome our loved ones and friends at this season, significant of peace.

The speaker said that the tree, which is usually the main feature of the modern Christmas celebrations in this country, is completely Christian in its origin and its use is of fairly recent origin. In Germany it attained its immense popularity in the beginning of the last century. Our evergreen tree has become the symbol of Christmas and the focal point of the house decorations. Regardless of size or form, whether live or artificial, highly ornamented with baubles, lights and fancy ornaments, it does not matter. The Christmas tree, topped by a shining star, reminiscent of Bethlehem, carries a precious message.

She described various methods of decorating a tree and suggested one decorated with Christmas cards alone or one with artificial fruit in the Della Rabbia manner or one sprayed with artificial snow and decorated with styrofoam balls. She suggested the family have two trees, a custom followed in her home. The children designing, purchasing and decorating their own tree. An unusual tree of pink satisfies the modern taste. It is sprayed or flocked with pink and decorated with dark blue and silver balls.

Lights were mentioned at the second essential. Mrs. Painter said that in medieval times it was customary to represent Christ the Lord by burning a candle. At Christmas, a large candle symbolizing the Lord was set up in the homes of the faithful on the Eve of the Feast. It was placed in the center of a laurel wreath and kept burning through the Holy night.

A history covering various country's customs in the use of the candle such as the Slavic nations, South America, England, France and Germany was given. We of the United States, use candles in profusion. Greens and mirrors make a wonderful background for candles of all sizes.

The Yule-log is another cherished Christmas tradition. It's use originated among the Germanic tribes as a pagan celebration of the Yule God, Thor. Mrs. Painter urged everyone to use their fireplaces more at this season.

A mantel and fireplace offer opportunities for decoration. Evergreens, garlands of holly, fruit in a Della Rabbia swag, wreaths, pine cones and candles all are suggested materials. The nativity scene, a little snow scene and flowers could add their effectiveness. Poinsettias are beautiful before a white mantel.

Mrs. Painter concluded her talk with the modern custom of outdoor decoration. In fact she called it the decorations you share with your neighbors at this season. There is no tradition here except for perhaps the colors, chosen and these run to the usual red, green, gold silver and white. The size is of importance. Small ones cannot be seen, but it must not be too large — to seem overdone.

She noted that simplicity and color harmony should be observed. The usual green garlands of pine or holly may be used to good advantage and lighted effectively. It may be used around doors and windows as edging. Even lights strung strategically are lovely and well worth the effort expended.

Mrs. Painter displayed some pictures of some of their prize winning outdoor decorations of the past eight years and described the mechanics, design and materials used in their construction.

She expressed the desire that she had inspired her audience to decorate their homes both within and outside this year to foster the Christmas spirit.

Mrs. David Fullen, president, presided at the business meeting, which she prefaced with the following remarks:

"Tonight, the Monday before Thanksgiving, we had planned to pay a very special tribute to our beautiful country. Even though we have shared a great loss this weekend, it is fitting that we pay this tribute, for our country's beauty is that of a temple, not built of stones and mortar but of human lives and Mr. Kennedy is a part of this temple."

"We, as Americans, pride ourselves on being a land of self-made men, yet who is among us who does not owe much to those who have gone before."

"Perhaps, by dwelling this Thanksgiving Day on our reasons to be grateful for the blessings of today and yesterday we may, like the Pilgrims, increase our faith in tomorrow."

Mrs. David Harman was elected to active membership. The Ohioanna Calendars for 1964 may be purchased from Mrs. Doyle Painter, Miss Martha Reid, Mrs. Earl Smith or Mrs. O. E. Barr, chairman of the committee.

The Dec. 9 meeting will feature musical selections by a brass quartet from the High School and some Christmas music by the Monday Club Chorus.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Finer Points of Grammar!

DEAR ABBY: You said it wasn't proper to say "Congratulations" to a bride. One should say "Best wishes" to the bride, and "Congratulations" to the groom. Then you said the person who said "Congratulations" to a bride might as well follow it up with, "I didn't think you could land him." I think you're all wrong, Abby. A bride DESERVES to be congratulated. In this day and age it is really an accomplishment to get a man to marry her. How about when a person graduates from high school or college if I say "Congratulations" to someone, might I just as well follow it up with, "I didn't think you could make it."

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: If you did, the graduate is likely to reply "Thanks, neither did I."

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is getting married pretty soon. Her father has been locked up in the state insane asylum for the past three years. When we make the announcement and send out the wedding invitations, should we use, "MR. AND MRS. SO AND SO" According to the law, he is not responsible. He can't sign contracts or anything like that. If we didn't use his name, he couldn't be hurt because he wouldn't know the difference. Thank you.

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Even though your husband is confined in a mental hospital, he is still alive. Announcements and invitations in such circumstances should read "MR. AND MRS." To deny his existence would be cruel.

DEAR ABBY: I come from a large family. I have several older sisters and brothers who are married and have children. I am engaged to be married and want to know if, after I am

from THE DEB SHOP
D. BOGGS

TOMORROW IS THANKSGIVING — the day for all of us to stop and think of how lucky we are to live in this free land of ours. It is a day whose symbolism has been lost in the excitement of big dinners, lots of company, football games, and Christmas parades.

But this particular Thanksgiving will take on a special meaning for us all. While we are enjoying our own day we can't help but be reminded that there is another family that through the perversion of one man is now one less. That President Kennedy was killed because of us and our country. We can't help but wonder what it was within all of us that caused Oswald to become so violently opposed to the basic ideals of the President. So opposed that he had to kill him — and in killing him kill a small portion of each of us.

It would seem that now each of us must assume some portion of this man's guilt and do what each of us can to rectify it. Yet while this sadness and guilt still prevail we have much to be thankful for. That this is America and we are Americans and that we have a strong government that can carry on so that we know all is not lost. We can only hope that out of this tragedy we have become more aware of what this country means to us and what there is to lose. We can only hope that each of us becomes more aware of our own responsibility in maintaining and improving our way of life and that a stronger feeling of unity and loyalty prevail. If this is the outcome then Mr. Kennedy did not die in vain. We at the Deb Shop wish you all a truly memorable Thanksgiving.

Lima Citizen Sues Foe for $7.8 Million

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Lima Citizen Publishing Co. filed suit in U. S. District Court here Tuesday for more than $7 million in damages against the Freedom Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Lima News.

The Citizen, which started publication July 1, 1957, charges the News with violations of the Sherman and Clayton Anti-trust Acts in an alleged conspiracy to force the Citizen out of business.

The Citizen seeks $7,875,000 in trebled damages and asks a permanent court injunction against continuation of more than a score of practices which it describes as illegal. The plaintiff lists three co-conspirators, Stamps - Conhaim-Whitehead, Inc., New York; Metro Associated Services, Inc., Chicago; and Meyer-Both Co., Chicago. The three firms were not named as co-defendants.

The suit alleges that at the time the Citizen began publication the three firms, named co-conspirators, were the only firms in the country that furnished general mat services to newspapers. The Citizen charges that the news obtained the exclusive right to use the mat services of Stamps - Conhaim and Metro in the Lima area and has renewed the right yearly.

The petition continued, that because of the Citizen's inability to obtain mat services from the two firms it sought similar service from Meyer - Both and was advised such service was unavailable. Later, the Citizen says it was informed that it could not obtain the service because exclusive rights to its use had been obtained by the News.

The Citizen lists 27 alleged illegal practices by the News, which the plaintiff claims is "attempt to monopolize interstate commerce with intent to eliminate the competition . . ." included in the list were charge-advertise in the News.

—Furnished free billboard space to some national advertisers on the condition that they es that the News;

—Repeated some classified advertising without collecting charges for continued publication.

—Charged advertising rates which discriminate among advertisers of like classes.

—Granted gifts, rebates, refunds and discounts to some purchasers of like classes of advertising space.

—Charged some subscribers lower rates.

—Granted unlimited credit to some advertisers.

The News will have 20 days after it is served with the complaint to answer to the charges.

The Citizen has a circulation of about 25,000. The News, which has been published in Lima for about 75 years and since 1956 by Freedom Newspapers, lists circulation of about 27,000.

In Lima, editors of the News said they had not received any court notification of the suit, but that they had been aware that a suit was to be filed. E. Roy Smith, the publisher, was not immediately available for comment.

Thanksgiving Is Proclaimed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the text of President John F. Kennedy's Thanksgiving Proclamation, released prior to his untimely assassination last Friday in Dallas, Tex. He speaks of past tragedies and perils in American history, little knowing that another tragedy was going to claim his own life but a few days hence. Here is the Proclamation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the text of President Kennedy's Thanksgiving Proclamation:

THE WHITE HOUSE Thanksgiving Day 1963 United States of America PROCLAMATION

Over three centuries ago our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts far from home in a lonely wilderness set aside a time for Thanksgiving. On the appointed day, they gave reverent thanks for their safety, for the health of their children, for the fertility of their fields, for the laws which bound them together and for the faith which united them under their God.

So, too when the colonies achieved their independence, our first President in the first year of his first administration proclaimed November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God" and called upon the people of the new republic, "Beseech him to pardon our national and other transgressions . . . to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue . . . and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to be best."

And so too in the midst of America's Tragic Civil War, President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday of November, 1863, as a day to renew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields" for our "national strength and vigor" and for our "singular deliverance and blessings."

Much time has passed since the first colonists came to rocky shores and dark forests of an unknown continent, much time since President Washington led a young people into the experiment of nationhood, much time since President Lincoln saw the American nation through the ordeal of fraternal war—and in these years our population, our plenty and our power have all grown apace. Today we are a nation of nearly two hundred million souls, stretching from coast to coast, on into the Pacific and north toward the Arctic, a nation enjoying the fruits of an ever expanding agriculture and industry and achieving standards of living unknown in previous history. We give our humble thanks for this.

Yet, as our power has grown, so has our peril. Today we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith we inherit from our forefathers—for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility, which they possessed and which we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them.

Let us therefore proclaim our gratitude to providence for manifold blessings—let us be humbly thankful for inherited ideals—and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human being throughout the world.

Now, therefore, I John F.

Kennedy, President of the United States in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved December 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862 (5 U.S.C. 87 B) designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 28, 1963 as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in the homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that he will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington this fourth day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred sixty-three and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-eight.

Arbitrators Say 90 Pct. of Rail Firemen Unneeded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal arbitrators ruled Tuesday that 90 per cent of firemen's jobs on diesel yard engines and freight trains should be eliminated. They said this should be one by attrition or with job protection for most of the 40,000 union members affected.

The seven-member arbitration board in the long dispute over railroad work rules was set up under a law enacted by Congress in August which provided that its finding would be binding on both parties.

However, a spokesman for two of the five railroad unions said the arbitration award and the law under which it was made would be attacked in federal court.

Pennsy Rail Tax Review To Be Held

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A State Tax Department review board will consider a Pennsylvania Railroad request for re-determination of the public utilities tax owed by the railroad to Ohio.

Tax department officials said no date has been set for the review. The calculation is as of Dec. 31, 1962, and is payable in 1964.

The state figures the public utilities tax on the amount of property valuation, which it estimates is $185 million in Ohio for the Pennsylvania Railroad. The railroad contends the valuation figure should be around $100 million.

The property valuation concerns each county in the state, since each county applies its prevailing real estate tax to the valuation of the railroad property within its boundaries.

Lima Citizen Sues Foe for $7.8 Million

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Lima Citizen Publishing Co. filed suit in U. S. District Court here Tuesday for more than $7 million in damages against the Freedom News papers, Inc., publishers of the Lima News.

The Citizen, which started publication July 1, 1957, charges the News with violations of the Sherman and Clayton Anti-trust Acts in an alleged conspiracy to force the Citizen out of business.

The Citizen seeks $7,875,000 in trebled damages and asks a permanent court injunction against continuation of more than a score of practices which it describes as illegal. The plaintiff lists three co-conspirators: Stamps - Conhaim-Whitehead, Inc., New York; Metro Associated Services, Inc., Chicago; and Meyer-Both Co., Chicago. The three firms were not named as co-defendants.

The suit alleges that at the time the Citizen began publication the three firms, named co-conspirators, were the only firms in the country that furnished general mat services to newspapers. The Citizen charges that the news obtained the exclusive right to use the mat services of Stamps - Conhaim and Metro in the Lima area and has renewed the right yearly.

The petition continued, that because of the Citizen's inability to obtain mat services from the two firms it sought similar service from Meyer - Both and was advised such service was unavailable. Later, the Citizen says it was informed that it could not obtain the service because exclusive rights to its use had been obtained by the News.

The Citizen lists 27 alleged illegal practices by the News, which the plaintiff claims is "attempt to monopolize interstate commerce with intent to eliminate the competition..." included in the list were charged advertise in th News.

—Furnished free billboard space to some national advertisers on the condition that they es that the News;

—Repeated some classified advertising without collecting charges for continued publication.

—Charged advertising rates which discriminate among advertisers of like classes.

—Granted gifts, rebates, refunds and discounts to some purchasers of like classes of advertising space.

—Charged some subscribers lower rates.

—Granted unlimited credit to some advertisers.

The News will have 20 days after it is served with the complaint to answer to the charges.

The Citizen has a circulation of about 25,000. The News, which has been published in Lima for about 75 years and since 1956 by Freedom Newspapers, lists circulation of about 27,000.

In Lima, editors of the News said they had not received any court notification of the suit, but that they had been aware that a suit was to be filed. E. Roy Smith, the publisher, was not immediately available for comment.

Mobile Home Population Showing Rapid Expansion

By Central Press Association
NEW YORK — More than three-and-a-half million American families now are living in mobile homes, and at least 125,000 more families are expected to join the fold this year.

Mobile homes are not travel trailers, as Newton Glekel, chairman of the board of the world's largest mobile home manufacturer, is quick to point out. "About the only similarity between the two is that both come with wheels," he says.

In a large sense, the mobile home is an evolutionary step forward from the travel trailer, but with a different objective and application. "A mobile home is a form of permanent housing which can be relocated with relative ease, if necessary," Glekel notes, "but its mobility is only an incidental factor."

The new national trend has been toward establishing mobile home parks as typical suburban communities. These parks have all the appearances of permanency expected in comparable real estate developments.

The newer designs and the trend toward larger expandable and multi-unit homes themselves have contributed substantially to this community concept, eliminating the transient appearance associated with the travel trailer camp site.

Last year, for example, some 12 per cent of the total 113,500 mobile homes produced in this country were either expandable or multi-units. An expandable is a home with sections that telescope or pull out to double the width of a particular room.

Multi-units actually are two separate homes designed to be joined together at a permanent location site. Some of these homes have as many as three bedrooms and two baths, in addition to a living room, full-sized kitchen and dining area.

Mobile homes come fully furnished and decorated at costs ranging from $3,500 to more than $15,000, with approximately $5,000 representing the average volume price to the consumer. Most are centrally heated by oil, gas or electric furnaces, and all feature plywood interior walls.

The average, or some 70 per cent of the homes produced last year, were 50 to 59 feet in length and 10 feet wide. A small percentage of the homes were produced in 12-foot widths, but various state highway laws which prohibit transporting trailers over 10 feet in width tend to restrict the manufacturing of wide er units. The expandable and multi-unit models, however, solve this.

Neton Glekel's firm, as the largest producer of mobile homes, controlling more than 10 per cent of the over-all market, produces its homes in 11 plants located in California, Oregon, Texas, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Florida and Ontario, Canada.

Recently, it completed a consumer survey, finding that some 35 per cent of its homes were purchased by young married couples. Retired persons, seeking Florida or California residence, were next in importance, followed by military families, then workers in expanding industrial communities.

In most cases, purchasers installed their homes at a permanent location, removing the wheels and setting the houses onto concrete foundations. Many military families, however, and some workers whose jobs require frequent relocations, were motivated by the mobility factor.

A typical contemporary mobile home, with a double width living room, has more floor space than available in the average city apartment and at far less expense, Glekel says. "Certainly, far more complete and far less in cost than a 'constructed' house of similar proportions."

Berliners Pay JFK Tribute

City Area Named For Slain Chief

BERLIN (AP) — A tearful crowd of 250,000 West Berliners gathered in "John F. Kennedy Square" Monday night for a final farewell to the man who won their affection only five months ago with the words "I am a Berliner."

They cried unashamedly as the sound of taps rolled across the square from two bugles—one answering the other—in memory of the American President they regarded as friend and brother.

Above the platform from which he had spoken amid wild jubilation in June there was now only his portrait, flanked by two palms that waved gently in the cold night wind.

Never before had divided Berlin seen such an outpouring of grief as in the five days since the death of Kennedy. The vast throng paid its respect at the call of Mayor Willy Brandt, who was in Washington for the President's funeral.

Deputy Mayor Heinrich Albertz eulogized Kennedy as a "brother of the Berliners." He concluded the tribute by renaming the square in front of City Hall for the President. Police slowly undraped new street signs bearing his name.

As taps resounded from the bugles of two U.S. soldiers, lights in the square went out. The flicker of thousands of candles in windows of surrounding houses remained.

Brandt's wife covered her face and sobbed, while Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, looked drawn and tense. The British and French commandants also were deeply moved.

For one minute, West Berlin's Freedom Bell—a gift of the American people—told. Its clear ring carried across the wall into Communist East Berlin.

TODAY In History

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 27, the 331st day of 1963. There are 34 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1873, one of America's first great tunnels—the Hoosac Tunnel in Massachusetts—was completed after many interruptions. It was started in 1855.

On this date: In 1703, seven English warships were wrecked and Eddystone lighthouse was demolished by a storm which caused an estimated $10 million damage in London and killed 8,000 people.

In 1919, Bulgaria signed a peace treaty which yielded territory to Greece and Yugoslavia.

In 1945, Holland's Nazi puppet leader during World War II, went on trial as a traitor.

Ten years ago—Noted American playwright Eugene O'Neill died at 65.

Five years ago—The Soviet Union proposed that West Berlin be made a free city, independent of West and East Germany.

One year ago—All 97 persons aboard were killed when a Boeing 707 jetliner operated by the Brazilian Varig Airlines crashed and burned near Lima, Peru.

STUNNED—The assassination of President John F. Kennedy shocked the world. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says in New York (left), "I share the sense of shock and dismay that the entire nation must feel at this despicable act which took the life of our President." In San Francisco, Henry Cabot Lodge (center) says, "I cannot express the sorrow I feel." At the right Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson leaves the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa, Ont., after conveying his sympathies to the ambassador.

UP AND ALMOST OUT—The 7,000-ton Nathan Hale, Navy's 14th Polaris missile submarine, breaks the surface at a sharp angle off the East Coast in final sea trials before Nov. 23 commissioning at Groton, Conn.

Mobile Home Population Showing Rapid Expansion

By Central Press Association
NEW YORK — More than three-and-a-half million American families now are living in mobile homes, and at least 125,000 more families are expected to join the fold this year.

Mobile homes are not travel trailers, as Newton Glekel, chairman of the board of the world's largest mobile home manufacturer, is quick to point out. "About the only similarity between the two is that both come with wheels," he says.

In a large sense, the mobile home is an evolutionary step forward from the travel trailer, but with a different objective and application. "A mobile home is a form of permanent housing which can be relocated with relative ease, if necessary," Glekel notes, "but its mobility is only an incidental factor."

The new national trend has been toward establishing mobile home parks as typical suburban communities. These parks have all the appearances of permanency expected in comparable real estate developments.

The newer designs and the trend toward larger expandable and multi-unit homes themselves have contributed substantially to this community concept, eliminating the transient appearance associated with the travel trailer camp site.

Last year, for example, some 12 per cent of the total 113,500 mobile homes produced in this country were either expandable or multi-units. An expandable is a home with sections that telescope or pull out to double the width of a particular room.

Multi-units actually are two separate homes designed to be joined together at a permanent location site. Some of these homes have as many as three bedrooms and two baths, in addition to a living room, full-sized kitchen and dining area.

Mobile homes come fully furnished and decorated at costs ranging from $3,500 to more than $15,000, with approximately $5,000 representing the average volume price to the consumer. Most are centrally heated by oil, gas or electric furnaces, and all feature plywood interior walls.

The average, or some 70 per cent of the homes produced last year, were 50 to 59 feet in length and 10 feet wide. A small percentage of the homes were produced in 12-foot widths, but various state highway laws which prohibit transporting trailers over 10 feet in width tend to restrict the manufacturing of wide er units. The expandable and multi-unit models, however, solve this.

Neton Glekel's firm, as the largest producer of mobile homes, controlling more than 10 per cent of the over-all market, produces its homes in 11 plants located in California, Oregon, Texas, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Florida and Ontario, Canada.

Recently, it completed a consumer survey, finding that some 35 per cent of its homes were purchased by young married couples. Retired persons, seeking Florida or California residence, were next in importance, followed by military families, then workers in expanding industrial communities.

In most cases, purchasers installed their homes at a permanent location, removing the wheels and setting the houses onto concrete foundations. Many military families, however, and some workers whose jobs require frequent relocations, were motivated by the mobility factor.

A typical contemporary mobile home, with a double width living room, has more floor space than available in the average city apartment and at far less expense, Glekel says. "Certainly, far more complete and far less in cost than a 'constructed' house of similar proportions."

Berliners Pay JFK Tribute

City Area Named For Slain Chief

BERLIN (AP) — A tearful crowd of 250,000 West Berliners gathered in "John F. Kennedy Square" Monday night for a final farewell to the man who won their affection only five months ago with the words "I am a Berliner."

They cried unashamedly as the sound of taps rolled across the square from two bugles—one answering the other—in memory of the American President they regarded as friend and brother.

Above the platform from which he had spoken amid wild jubilation in June there was now only his portrait, flanked by two palms that waved gently in the cold night wind.

Never before has divided Berlin seen such an outpouring of grief as in the five days since the death of Kennedy. The vast throng paid its respect at the call of Mayor Willy Brandt, who was in Washington for the President's funeral.

Deputy Mayor Heinrich Albertz eulogized Kennedy as a "brother of the Berliners." He concluded the tribute by renaming the square in front of City Hall for the President. Police slowly undraped new street signs bearing his name.

As taps resounded from the bugles of two U.S. soldiers, lights in the square went out. The flicker of thousands of candles in windows of surrounding houses remained.

Brandt's wife covered her face and sobbed, while Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, looked drawn and tense. The British and French commandants also were deeply moved.

For one minute, West Berlin's Freedom Bell—a gift of the American people—told. Its clear ring carried across the wall into Communist East Berlin.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr.
Phone YU 3-6111

Fifteen members were present Monday evening when the Ashville Community Club met in regular session in the Community Park Shelterhouse. President Rolland Featheringham presided at the business meeting.

The Rev. John Morgan opened the meeting with invocation, followed with a moment of silent prayer, in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Gene Tosca and Featheringham gave a report on the Fifth Community Development Conference they attended at Ohio State University on Nov. 1 and 2. They explained steps on how industry could be established in the village.

They said an agency composed of local people would be needed to make a research of facilities and land available for such purposes. Featheringham announced he would name such a committee at a later date to work with the Village Council.

Steve Cook reported that most all of the downtown Christmas decorations have been installed and ready to light after the Thanksgiving holidays. Warren Bastian reported that plans for Christmas treats and the securing of Santa Claus for a visit to the village has been completed.

Paul Welsh was named chairman of the membership committee for 1964. He will be working with an additional 10 members of the club to hold a membership drive.

William Pangburn, representing the Ashville Band Boosters, asked for permission to present a special exhibit in the Ashville School Auditorium during the coming 4th of July Celebration. Admission proceeds will go to the Booster Club. Permission was not granted at this time, as the club feel this would take away too much of the help needed to run the concession stands successfully.

No meeting will be held in December. Heading the January meeting are: program, Rev. Morgan and Wade Carter; Refreshments, Bill Lockard and Bob Vince.

Refreshments of pie, ice cream, and coffee was served at the close of the meeting by Don Thompson and Steve Cook.

The November meeting of the Ashville PTA was held Thursday evening in the school auditorium. The session opened with the Pledge of Allegiance, led by the Ashville Boy Scout Troop 159.

Devotions were given by the Rev. A. L. Drewes, pastor of the First English Lutheran Church. A Thanksgiving program was presented by the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, under the direction of Everett Mehrey. Also presenting a special number was four girls from the eighth grade.

Following the program the meeting was opened by Mrs. Raymond Huggins, president. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. The treasurer's book showed a profit of $401.21 from the school's Halloween Carnival.

Mrs. Huggins extended personal thanks to the many who helped with the successful carnival. Room mothers and the committees were thanked.

The grade winning the membership drive, which was conducted earlier, will be announced at the December meeting. A motion was made to give the school janitors, Mr. Norris and Mr. Gillian, each a fee for their part in cleaning up after the carnival.

Roll call was conducted by Mr. Irwin. Grade 4 had 30 attending parents, tops for the evening.

An introduction of village officials was made by Mrs. Felix Dore, vice president.

A discussion followed. Topics were the new disposal plant and council meetings which are open to the public; curfew and when it is enforced; the appearance of downtown buildings; and what can be done to improve safety for elementary school children, pertaining mostly to traffic.

The Open House for the newly constructed village sewage plant, originally scheduled set for last Sunday, was rescheduled due to the death of the President Kennedy to this Sunday, beginning at 2 p. m. The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new plant.

The Ashville - Scioto Junior High basketball game slated for last Monday has been rescheduled for Dec. 10. It will be played at the Ashville Auditorium.

Sgt. and Mrs. William Trimble and Sandy, Terry and Jeff visited last weekend with Mr. Trimble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trimble of Kent. Mr. Trimble's father suffered a heart attack earlier in the week. He is reported improved.

Third grade classes at Ashville are participating in a county-wide two weeks dental program. Each student has been given a package containing tooth paste, red pills which will disclose cavities and instructions for the two week program. A final analysis will be given at the end of the test period.

Action taken at the Monday night meeting of the Teays Valley School Board consisted of accepting the resignation of Avis Smith, first grade school teacher at Walnut. Hired to replace Mrs. Smith was Mrs. Chester Peters of Ashville.

Also hired as an additional teacher in the 7th and 8th grades at Scioto was Mrs. Freida Corcoran of Clarksburg. She formerly taught at Kingston Union.

The next regular meeting of the board was rescheduled to Dec. 9, due to the holidays.

The Bastian Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this past week: Nov. 21—returned Guy Sark home from Mercy Hospital; Nov. 23—moved Elmer Patton, Wellston, to Berger Hospital following an auto accident on the Daniel Boone farm; Nov. 24—moved Ruth Salisbury of Plainview Trailer Court to Mercy Hospital.

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department made two calls last week. On Nov. 22 the unit extinguished a blaze in a two-wheel trailer containing siding, owned by the Durite Home Improvement, Columbus. The trailer was parked on the farm of Guster Jenkins, Route 1, Ashville. Cause of the blaze was believed to be friction in a wheel. Loss was set at $175 on siding and $40 on the trailer.

On Nov. 24 at 11:08 a. m. the firemen were called to the home of Art Deal Jr., Route 2, Ashville, when a sump pump caught fire, filling the house with smoke. Damage was listed at $40 to the pump.

A special combined Thanksgiving Eve service will be held at the Ashville Methodist Church in conjunction with the Hedges Chapel Methodist Church. The services will begin at 7:30 p. m., with a special offering being made for CROP. Special music will be presented by the Ashville Junior Choir and the MettaLarks, a ladies quartet.

The Teays Valley Athletic Booster Club will meet 7:30 p. m. on Dec. 2 in Teays Valley High School. The meeting is open to new members.

Pinball Owners Sue To Get Back Gadgets

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The owners of 26 pinball machines seized by Middletown police last week are suing to get them back.

In their suits filed Tuesday in Common Pleas Court, K. & K. Music, Ind., Middletown, and Pioneer Vending, Inc., Cincinnati, also sought $10,000 damages from officials of the city.

Youth, 18, Charged With Slaying Wife

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—An 18-year-old high school senior has been charged with first-degree murder in the death of his wife.

Robert Willis told authorities a .32 caliber automatic discharged accidentally in their Harveysburg home Nov. 17, fatally wounding his wife, Jacqueline. 17. Officials said the charge was filed Tuesday because of discrepancies in Willis' story.

The Open House for the newly constructed village sewage plant, originally scheduled set for last Sunday, was rescheduled due to the death of the President Kennedy to this Sunday, beginning at 2 p. m. The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new plant.

The Ashville - Scioto Junior High basketball game slated for last Monday has been rescheduled for Dec. 10. It will be played at the Ashville Auditorium.

WEDDING PRESENT—One of the wedding presents received by Dr. George Crile Jr., Cleveland, and his bride, the former Miss Helga Sanburg, is enjoying life at the Flat Rock, N.C., farm of her father, poet Carl Sanburg. It is a Cardianian.

Local 4-H Award Winners Earn Club Congress Trip

Ohioans from Pickaway and Greene Counties will compete for $500 college scholarships at the National 4-H Club Congress, Dec. 1-5, in Chicago. All are state winners in four separate 4-H programs under the cooperative Extension Service.

The teen-agers won expense-paid trips to the congress. They are: David Schein, 16, Williamsport, beef; James Shell, 18, Mt. Sterling, dairy; Harold Albert Jr., 18, Williamsport, swine; and Doug Coulter, 17, Yellow Springs, automotive.

The results of Schein's beef feeding projects led his father to change the feeding methods of his herd. Schein, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, has won several trophies and ribbons.

In the county rate-of-gain contest, Schein took first and second places this year. His pen-of-five steer project was judged best in the county. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., will sponsor his trip to the congress.

4-H work helped Shell decide to major in dairy technology at Ohio State University where he is enrolled in the honors program in agriculture. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shell, he has been in 4-H for 10 years and this year is assistant adviser to his club.

Shell has had the reserve grand champion Holstein at the Pickaway County fair for three years. He also has had the junior and reserve junior champions, and the senior and reserve senior champions. At the State Fair, he exhibited the first place junior yearling. Donor of Shell's trip to congress is the Oliver Corporation.

Harold Albert Jr., a freshman in the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University, is working in the pre-veterinarian program. The experience and knowledge gained in eight years in 4-H aided in his choice of a career, he said.

Moorman Mfg. Co. sponsors the swine program. His market pig projects won county awards as lightweight champion, first place pen of three, reserve champion pen of three, and first place sow and litter. His Hampshire breeding gilt was judged breed champion and farrowed the 11 pigs used in his winning sow and litter project.

Doug Coulter's prize-winning automotive project consisted of a 1948 pickup truck he reconditioned and a V-8 automobile engine that he overhauled. After winning the grand champion automotive award at the Greene County fair, the project was displayed as 'Project of the Day' at the State Fair.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr.
Phone YU 3-6111

Fifteen members were present Monday evening when the Ashville Community Club met in regular session in the Community Park Shelterhouse. President Rolland Featheringham presided at the business meeting.

The Rev. John Morgan opened the meeting with invocation, followed with a moment of silent prayer, in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Gene Tosca and Featheringham gave a report on the Fifth Community Development Conference they attended at Ohio State University on Nov. 1 and 2. They explained steps on how industry could be established in the village.

They said an agency composed of local people would be needed to make a research of facilities and land available for such purposes. Featheringham announced he would name such a committee at a later date to work with the Village Council.

Steve Cook reported that most all of the downtown Christmas decorations have been installed and ready to light after the Thanksgiving holidays. Warren Bastian reported that plans for Christmas treats and the securing of Santa Claus for a visit to the village has been completed.

Paul Welsh was named chairman of the membership committee for 1964. He will be working with an additional 10 members of the club to hold a membership drive.

William Pangburn, representing the Ashville Band Boosters, asked for permission to present a special exhibit in the Ashville School Auditorium during the coming 4th of July Celebration. Admission proceeds will go to the Booster Club. Permission was not granted at this time, as the club feel this would take away too much of the help needed to run the concession stands successfully.

No meeting will be held in December. Heading the January meeting are: program, Rev. Morgan and Wade Carter; Refreshments, Bill Lockard and Bob Vince.

Refreshments of pie, ice cream, and coffee was served at the close of the meeting by Don Thompson and Steve Cook.

The November meeting of the Ashville PTA was held Thursday evening in the school auditorium. The session opened with the Pledge of Allegiance, led by the Ashville Boy Scout Troop 159.

Devotions were given by the Rev. A. L. Drewes, pastor of the First English Lutheran Church.

A Thanksgiving program was presented by the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, under the direction of Everett Mehrely. Also presenting a special number was four girls from the eighth grade.

Following the program the meeting was opened by Mrs. Raymond Huggins, president. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. The treasurer's book showed a profit of $401.21 from the school's Halloween Carnival.

Mrs. Huggins extended personal thanks to the many who helped with the successful carnival. Room mothers and the committees were thanked.

The grade winning the membership drive, which was conducted earlier, will be announced at the December meeting. A motion was made to give the school janitors, Mr. Norris and Mr. Gillian, each a fee for their part in cleaning up after the carnival.

Roll call was conducted by Mr. Irwin. Grade 4 had 30 attending parents, tops for the evening.

An introduction of village officials was made by Mrs. Felix Dore, vice president.

A discussion followed. Topics were the new disposal plant and council meetings which are open to the public; curfew and when it is enforced; the appearance of downtown buildings; and what can be done to improve safety for elementary school children, pertaining mostly to traffic.

The Open House for the newly constructed sewage plant, originally scheduled set for last Sunday, has been rescheduled due to the death of th President Kennedy to this Sunday, beginning at 2 p. m. The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new plant.

The Ashville - Scioto Junior High basketball game slated for last Monday has been rescheduled for Dec. 10. It will be played at the Ashville Auditorium be-

Sgt. and Mrs. William Trimble and Sandy, Terry and Jeff visited last weekend with Mr. Trimble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trimble of Kent. Mr. Trimble's father suffered a heart attack earlier in the week. He is reported improved.

Third grade classes at Ashville are participating in a county-wide two weeks dental program. Each student has been given a package containing tooth paste, red pills which will disclose cavities and instructions for the two week program. A final analysis will be given at the end of the test period.

Action taken at the Monday night meeting of the Teays Valley School Board consisted of accepting the resignation of Avis Smith, first grade school teacher at Walnut. Hired to replace Mrs. Smith was Mrs. Chester Peters of Ashville.

Also hired as an additional teacher in the 7th and 8th grades at Scioto was Mrs. Freida Corcoran of Clarksburg. She formerly taught at Kingston Union.

The next regular meeting of the board was rescheduled to Dec. 9, due to the holidays.

The Bastian Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this past week: Nov. 21—returned Guy Sark home from Mercy Hospital; Nov. 23—moved Elmer Patton, Wellston, to Berger Hospital following an auto accident on the Daniel Boone farm; Nov. 24—moved Ruth Salisbury of Plainview Trailer Court to Mercy Hospital.

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department made two calls last week. On Nov. 22 the unit extinguished a blaze in a two-wheel trailer containing siding, owned by the Durite Home Improvement, Columbus. The trailer was parked on the farm of Guster Jenkins, Route 1, Ashville. Cause of the blaze was believed to be friction in a wheel. Loss was set at $175 on siding and $40 on the trailer.

On Nov. 24 at 11:08 a. m. the firemen were called to the home of Art Deal Jr., Route 2, Ashville, when a sump pump caught fire, filling the house with smoke. Damage was listed at $40 to the pump.

A special combined Thanksgiving Eve service will be held at the Ashville Methodist Church in conjunction with the Hedges Chapel Methodist Church. The services will begin at 7:30 p. m., with a special offering being made for CROP. Special music will be presented by the Ashville Junior Choir and the MettaLarks, a ladies quartet.

The Teays Valley Athletic Booster Club will meet 7:30 p. m. on Dec. 2 in Teays Valley High School. The meeting is open to new members.

Pinball Owners Sue To Get Back Gadgets

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The owners of 26 pinball machines seized by Middletown police last week are suing to get them back.

In their suits filed Tuesday in Common Pleas Court, K. & K. Music, Ind., Middletown, and Pioneer Vending, Inc., Cincinnati, also sought $10,000 damages from officials of the city.

Youth, 18, Charged With Slaying Wife

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—An 18-year-old high school senior has been charged with first-degree murder in the death of his wife.

Robert Willis told authorities a .32 caliber automatic discharged accidentally in their Harveysburg home Nov. 17, fatally wounding his wife, Jacqueline, 17. Officials said the charge was filed Tuesday because of discrepancies in Willis' story.

Local 4-H Award Winners Earn Club Congress Trip

Ohioans from Pickaway and Greene Counties will compete for $500 college scholarships at the National 4-H Club Congress, Dec. 1-5, in Chicago. All are state winners in four separate 4-H programs under the cooperative Extension Service.

The teen-agers won expense-paid trips to the congress. They are: David Schein, 16, Williamsport, beef, James Shell, 18, Mt. Sterling, dairy; Harold Albert Jr., 18, Williamsport, swine; and Doug Coulter, 17, Yellow Springs, automotive.

The results of Schein's beef feeding projects led his father to change the feeding methods of his herd. Schein, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, has won several trophies and ribbons.

In the county rate-of-gain contest, Schein took first and second places this year. His pen-of-five steer project was judged best in the county. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., will sponsor his trip to the congress.

4-H work helped Shell decide to major in dairy technology at Ohio State University where he is enrolled in the honors program in agriculture. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shell, he has been in 4-H for 10 years and this year is assistant adviser to his club.

Shell has had the reserve grand champion Holstein at the Pickaway County fair for three years. He also has had the junior and reserve junior champions, and the senior and reserve senior champions. At the State Fair, he exhibited the first place junior yearling. Donor of Shell's trip to congress is the Oliver Corporation.

Harold Albert Jr., a freshman in the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University, is working in the pre-veterinarian program. The experience and knowledge gained in eight years in 4-H aided in his choice of a career, he said.

Moorman Mfg. Co. sponsors the swine program. His market pig projects won county awards as lightweight champion, first place pen of three, reserve champion pen of three, and first place sow and litter. His Hampshire breeding gilt was judged breed champion and farrowed the 11 pigs used in his winning sow and litter project.

Doug Coulter's prize-winning automotive project consisted of a 1948 pickup truck he reconditioned and a V-8 automobile engine that he overhauled. After winning the grand champion automotive award at the Greene County fair, the project was displayed as 'Project of the Day', at the State Fair.

Johnson's Vote Record, Statements Examined

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of three articles reporting on the background of America's new President, Lyndon B. Johnson.

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The

towering domestic problem in the United States today, and a tricky political issue in the battle for the presidency next year, is the question of full equality for the Negro.

President Johnson is a Southerner.

But speaking last Memorial Day on the site of the Battle of Gettysburg Johnson said:

"Until justice is blind to color, until education is unaware of race, until opportunity is unconcerned with the color of men's skins, emancipation will be a proclamation but not a fact."

Johnson helped guide some civil rights legislation through the Senate in 1957 and 1960.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

NORTHERN OHIO—Temperatures will average 10-15 degrees above normal with only minor daily changes. Normal high 41-43, normal low 25-30. Scattered showers about Friday, again near first of week, will average about one-half inch.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average 8 to 12 degrees above normal. Normal high 42-50, normal low 27-32. Only minor daily changes expected. Rainfall will average about one-fourth inch or less with scattered showers most likely near weekend.

Cincinnati Freed In Fatal Stabbing

CINCINNATI (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Otis Hess has ruled the stabbing of Hardy Davidson, 47, was in self-defense and that Charles Bailey, 46, is innocent of first-degree manslaughter charges.

Testimony at Bailey's trial showed Davidson attacked him with a knife after a quarrel about money on Sept. 4. Bailey drew his own knife and stabbed Davidson, who died.

As a political realist, he knows his position on civil rights can cost him votes in the likely event that he is the Democratic nominee in 1964. In Texas, only a few hours before President Kennedy was assassinated, Johnson said, "the civil rights issue is going to hurt us."

It may be a factor in parts of the North too. Some Northern politicians call civil rights and "iceberg issue"—meaning there is more hidden than visible opposition to Kennedy administration proposals in this field.

Where does Johnson stand on other issues?

Here are some of his statements.

Cuba—"We shall not be content until the last of the Soviet forces are withdrawn from foreign soil."

Foreign aid—"No nation can long enjoy affluence when all the other nations are impoverished."

Defense—"We cannot be done with our dangers or even our duties by next weekend or next year. We are in for a long pull and it is our duty to begin pulling."

Communist China—"America stands firm with her Chinese (Nationalist) allies and we shall continue to do so until freedom is secured."

Disarmament—"We now face the prospect of detroying ourselves. I am calling for an open curtain for full discussion of the immediate, urgent problems facing our people. We should insist on the right to state our case on disarmament in detail to the Soviet people." (He said this in 1957, before the agreement to ban nuclear testing.)

Latin America—"We must revitalize our diplomatic corps with ambassadors who know and understand our neighbors and their language and have qualifications other than contributing to campaign chests."

"We must offer to the people of Latin America the very best technical know-how which will help them to develop their skills and to make and sell their products."

Johnson's voting record shows:

Labor—In 1947, he voted to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act. In 1952, he voted to request the President to invoke the injunction provisions of the Taft-Hartley act in the steel strike. In other votes, he opposed requiring unions to elect their officers by secret ballot every four years and requiring a majority vote by secret ballot before a union could call a strike.

Education—In 1949, he voted for a $300 million federal aid to education bill and against an amendment to restrict aid to public schools. In 1960, he voted to provide $917 million a year for two years for school construction and teachers' salaries.

Agriculture—He voted for the Democratic program of high, rigid farm price supports. During President Eisenhower's administration, Johnson voted against the sliding scale urged by the then secretary of agriculture, Ezra Benson.

Taxes—In 1948, Johnson voted against the tax reduction bill passed in the Republican-controlled Congress over President Truman's veto. He had supported a move to send the bill back to committee with instructions to raise personal exemptions to $700 and increase corporate taxes. In 1951, he voted against a tax bill amendment to provide for a withholding tax on dividends.

Welfare—He voted for area redevelopment legislation, disability benefits under Social Security, extending Social Security coverage, increased grants for public assistance, establishing a youth conservation corps, larger appropriations for federally sponsored medical research, slum clearance and low rent housing legislation.

Regents Ask $64 Million

General approval of the program was voiced by most university presidents and legislators attending the meeting, including presidents Vernon Alden of Ohio U., William T. Jerome of Bowling Green, Norman Auburn of Akron, Charles H. Wesley of Central State, William Carlson of Toledo and Robert White of Kent State.

State Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Alen, sponsor of the measure calling for the bond issue, said, "I think it is a pretty intelligent distribution of money for the first year."

Ohio State President Novice G. Fawcett asserted that the "planning money is less than was asked for." He noted that $1.6 million for a power plant—which he termed urgent—was not on the list.

Auburn, on the other hand, called for a meeting of Akron University directors today and assured the regents, "We will proceed without delay."

Here is a breakdown on allocations:

BOWLING GREEN—Addition to heating plant $483,500, library $3,401,500, and life sciences building $2,611,500.

CENTRAL STATE—Installation of steam piping system $100,000, sanitary sewers and water lines $65,000, sewage treatment plant and expansion of water system $100,000, addition to heating plant $700,000, plans for classroom buildings $135,000, physical education outdoor instruction area $125,000, campus lighting $150,000, deferred maintenance $150,000, land $53,000.

Veterans' Bonus Deadline Nears

The last day that veterans of the Korean Conflict or the beneficiaries may file claim for the Pennsylvania Korean Conflict Veterans Compensation is Dec. 31, 1963, according to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service officer.

This date is not far away, Shea said. If there are any veterans or beneficiaries in this area who may be eligible for this bonus, but who have not yet applied, they should do so at once, he added.

Qualifications for payment are: the veteran must have been a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania at the time of his entry into service; he must have served in active duty at least 60 days between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953. The compensation can amount to $500 for the individual depending on his length of service and whether he was the recipient of the Korean Service Medal.

Any person, currently living in this area, who was a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania at the time he entered service and who has not made application for this state bonus should contact Shea at once at his office in the basement of the County Courthouse.

Cuba—"We shall not be content until the last of the Soviet forces are withdrawn from foreign soil."

Foreign aid—"No nation can long enjoy affluence when all the other nations are impoverished."

Defense—"We cannot be done with our dangers or even our duties by next weekend or next year. We are in for a long pull and it is our duty to begin pulling."

Communist China—"America stands firm with her Chinese (Nationalist) allies and we shall continue to do so until freedom is secured."

Disarmament—"We now face the prospect of destroying ourselves. I am calling for an open curtain for full discussion of the immediate, urgent problems facing our people. We should insist on the right to state our case on disarmament in detail to the Soviet people." (He said this in 1957, before the agreement to ban nuclear testing.)

Latin America—"We must revitalize our diplomatic corps with ambassadors who know and understand our neighbors and their language and have qualifications other than contributing to campaign chests."

"We must offer to the people of Latin America the very best technical know-how which will help them to develop their skills and to make and sell their products."

Johnson's voting record shows:

Labor—In 1947, he voted to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act. In 1952, he voted to request the President to invoke the injunction provisions of the Taft-Hartley act in the steel strike. In other votes, he opposed requiring unions to elect their officers by secret ballot every four years and requiring a majority vote by secret ballot before a union could call a strike.

Education—In 1949, he voted for a $300 million federal aid to education bill and against an amendment to restrict aid to public schools. In 1960, he voted to provide $917 million a year for two years for school construction and teachers' salaries.

Agriculture—He voted for the Democratic program of high, rigid farm price supports. During President Eisenhower's administration, Johnson voted against the sliding scale urged by the then secretary of agriculture, Ezra Benson.

Taxes—In 1948, Johnson voted against the tax reduction bill passed in the Republican-controlled Congress over President Truman's veto. He had supported a move to send the bill back to committee with instructions to raise personal exemptions to $700 and increase corporate taxes. In 1951, he voted against a tax bill amendment to provide for a withholding tax on dividends.

Welfare—He voted for area redevelopment legislation, disability benefits under Social Security, extending Social Security coverage, increased grants for public assistance, establishing a youth conservation corps, larger appropriations for federally sponsored medical research, slum clearance and low rent housing legislation.

Regents Ask $64 Million

General approval of the program was voiced by most university presidents and legislators attending the meeting, including presidents Vernon Alden of Ohio U., William T. Jerome of Bowling Green, Norman Auburn of Akron, Charles H. Wesley of Central State, William Carlson of Toledo and Robert White of Kent State.

State Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Alen, sponsor of the measure calling for the bond issue, said, "I think it is a pretty intelligent distribution of money for the first year."

Ohio State President Novice G. Fawcett asserted that the "planning money is less than was asked for." He noted that $1.6 million for a power plant—which he termed urgent—was not on the list.

Auburn, on the other hand, called for a meeting of Akron University directors today and assured the regents, "We will proceed without delay."

Here is a breakdown on allocations:

Veterans' Bonus Deadline Nears

The last day that veterans of the Korean Conflict or the beneficiaries may file claim for the Pennsylvania Korean Conflict Veterans Compensation is Dec. 31, 1963, according to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service officer.

This date is not far away, Shea said. If there are any veterans or beneficiaries in this area who may be eligible for this bonus, but who have not yet applied, they should do so at once, he added.

Qualifications for payment are: the veteran must have been a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania at the time of his entry into service; he must have served in active duty at least 60 days between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953. The compensation can amount to $500 for the individual depending on his length of service and whether he was the recipient of the Korean Service Medal.

Any person, currently living in this area, who was a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania at the time he entered service and who has not made application for this state bonus should contact Shea at once at his office in the basement of the County Courthouse.

Oswald Recalled as Eccentric, Or Just Another Face in Crowd

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There was little about Lee Harvey Oswald to warn the world of what was coming.

To those few who knew him he was recalled, if at all, as sometimes eccentric but just another face in the crowd.

Some were aware he'd once left his homeland for Russia. Some saw occasional flashes of his seething contempt for the society that had nurtured him. A Marine or two recalled Oswald's expertise with a rifle. His wife knew that he'd bought a rifle. Other people knew Oswald worked in a building by which President Kennedy would pass. At least one knew Lee Harvey Oswald had shown up on the job Friday carrying a long package wrapped in brown paper.

But no one knew all of these things.

There was no one in Dallas—or anywhere else—to put all the pieces of Lee Harvey Oswald suddenly into place and cry out in warning: "Assassin!"

And so, police say, Oswald pulled the trigger, striking back at an unsuspecting society that within minutes would know this obscure misfit all too well.

But before it could learn what impelled Oswald to shoot President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Oswald himself was dead. And Monday, the same day the President was laid to rest before the mourning eyes of the world, Oswald was buried in a wooden box at Fort Worth.

Yet if his secret lies silenced in the grave, much remains to cast light on the rebel with a cause.

Oswald was a poor boy. His father died before Oswald was born on Oct. 18, 1939, in New Orleans. His mother, Marguerite, who had two other sons, tried to make ends meet working in shops. The family moved frequently, living in Fort Worth, New Orleans, North Dakota and New York.

Mrs. Oswald said Lee began working at odd jobs after school at an early age.

In fourth grade at a suburban Fort Worth school, Oswald was remembered by his principal, Mrs. N.M. Merrett, as "kind of smily, a boy with curly hair... very lively."

While he was 13 and 14 his family lived in New York City. His report card had become less promising. General grades: barely passing. Dependability, cooperation and self-control: unsatisfactory.

Back to New Orleans where classmates at Beauregard Junior High remembered Oswald as a loner, always getting into fights. But when he advanced to high school, he scored way above average in vocabulary and reading. And what was this solitary, belligerent boy of 15 reading? Karl Marx.

He said later he became interested in Marxism after reading a pamphlet a lady handed him about Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, executed Communists spies. Later Oswald moved to North Dakota.

"I could see the impoverishment of the masses before my own eyes in my mother," he said years later to a reporter. "I thought the worker's life could be better."

At 17 he enlisted in the Marines.

After Oswald was sent to Japan in July 1957, he was court-martialed twice, once for having an unregistered pistol (He lost his PFC stripe for that and another time for using profanity to a non-com.

After he got back to the States in 1958, Oswald asked to be discharged so he could support his mother. A year later he was put on active reserve status.

A month later—in October 1959—he was in Moscow.

"I've made up my mind, I'm through," he said and applied for Russian citizenship.

"Capitalism has passed its peak," he told a reporter. "I've seen poor Niggers...and that was a lesson. People hate because they've been told to hate. It's the fashion to hate people in the United States."

The Soviet government wouldn't grant him citizenship, but he was allowed to remain as an alien resident. He drifted into factory work in Minsk where he eventually married a Russian Pharmacist, Marina Nicholaeva.

Communism was fine but he missed his homeland. Meanwhile, however, the Marine Corps had learned of his trip to Russia and had given him an undesirable discharge. Angry he wrote a letter to the secretary of the Navy.

"I shall employ all means to right this gross mistake or injustice to a boni-fied (sic) U.S. citizen and ex-serviceman."

The secretary of the Navy who received that letter was John B. Connally Jr., who, as governor of Texas, was wounded by the assassin's bullets last Friday.

Finally, in May 1962, the State Department, explaining that Oswald had not expatriated himself, issued him a passport to come home. That June, Oswald, his wife and their baby daughter arrived in New York.

Oswald moved about—New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth—working at odd jobs, reading, keeping to himself.

Last July, Oswald got into a fracas because a man he had approached earlier about helping train Cuban guerrillas saw Oswald handing out pro-Castro literature. He claimed to be secretary of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. But that group said it didn't even have a chapter in Louisiana.

Last June, Oswald was granted a passport after he said he wanted to roam Russia, Poland and Western Europe as a photographer. But he never went.

Instead he sent his wife, pregnant again, to Irving, Tex., to live with a Quaker friend, Mrs. Michael R. Paine. Oswald sneaked out later, owing 15 days rent.

Paine said Oswald talked Marxism, Marxism, Marxism. "Oswald refused to eschew violence as a method for achieving desired ends." Violence? But how? Against whom? For what ends?

The world knows now the answer to the first three questions. Not the fourth.

The how was a 6.5mm Italian carbine with scope which Oswald bought for $19.95 from a Chicago sporting goods firm. Just when he chose the targets of his wrath is not known, but it was announced last September that Kennedy would be coming to Dallas. Soon afterward, Oswald heard a friend of Mrs. Paine's talking about a job opening at the Texas School Book Depository Building in Dallas.

It only paid $50 a week but Oswald said he'd room in Dallas and visit his family weekends. (His wife had just had another daughter).

Then, last Thursday, Oswald changed his pattern. He went out to the Paine's to spend the night with his family.

The next morning he was off to work and Mrs. Paine paid scant attention to a blanket in the garage. Mrs. Oswald didn't talk English. Maybe that's why she never told anyone she thought she'd seen a gun wrapped in the blanket.

But even if she had, were there sufficient danger signs in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald to have warned anyone astute enough to see enough of them?

Maybe now, in hindsight, there were. But, last Friday morning, no one saw enough of them.

Communism was fine but he missed his homeland. Meanwhile, however, the Marine Corps had learned of his trip to Russia and had given him an undesirable discharge. Angriely he wrote a letter to the secretary of the Navy.

"I shall employ all means to right this gross mistake or injustice to a boni-fied (sic) U.S. citizen and ex-serviceman."

The secretary of the Navy who received that letter was John B. Connally Jr., who, as governor of Texas, was wounded by the assassin's bullets last Friday.

Finally, in May 1962, the State Department, explaining that Oswald had not expatriated himself, issued him a passport to come home. That June, Oswald, his wife and their baby daughter arrived in New York.

Oswald moved about — New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth — working at odd jobs, reading, keeping to himself.

Last July, Oswald got into a fracas because a man he had approached earlier about helping train Cuban guerrillas saw Oswald handing out pro-Castro literature. He claimed to be secretary of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. But that group said it didn't even have a chapter in Louisiana.

Last June, Oswald was granted a passport after he said he wanted to roam Russia, Poland and Western Europe as a photographer. But he never went.

Instead he sent his wife, pregnant again, to Irving, Tex., to live with a Quaker friend, Mrs. Michael R. Paine. Oswald sneaked out later, owing 15 days rent.

Paine said Oswald talked Marxism, Marxism, Marxism.

"Oswald refused to eschew violence as a method for achieving desired ends." Violence? But how? Against whom? For what ends?

The world knows now the answer to the first three questions. Not the fourth.

The how was a 6.5mm Italian carbine with scope which Oswald bought for $19.95 from a Chicago sporting goods firm. Just when he chose the targets of his wrath is not known, but it was announced last September that Kennedy would be coming to Dallas. Soon afterward, Oswald heard a friend of Mrs. Paine's talking about a job opening at the Texas School Book Depository Building in Dallas.

It only paid $50 a week but Oswald said he'd room in Dallas and visit his family weekends. (His wife had just had another daughter).

Then, last Thursday, Oswald changed his pattern. He went out to the Paine's to spend the night with his family.

The next morning he was off to work and Mrs. Paine paid scant attention to a blanket in the garage. Mrs. Oswald didn't talk English. Maybe that's why she never told anyone she thought she'd seen a gun wrapped in the blanket.

But even if she had, were there sufficient danger signs in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald to have warned anyone astute enough to see enough of them?

Maybe now, in hindsight, there were. But, last Friday morning, no one saw enough of them.

Turkey Disappeared
MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—There were costumed characters all over the place at the fall festival and Halloween party at West Hopkins High School.

It seemed the spooks and goblins were right busy, too. When it came time to give out the main prize, a turkey, it was gone.

The sheriff's office located the turkey — in the custody of three young men. Two drew five days in jail; the third was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Alberts set a conference rushing mark of 604 yards in the season just ended.

Also announced Tuesday night at the Bobcats annual awards dinner were the co-captains for the 1964 team. They are half-back Ron Curtis of Toledo and Skip Hoover, center linebacker from Pataskala.

Jackson Takes 69-54 Win at Berne Union

The Jackson Wildcats romped to their fifth win of the season last night, downing Berne Union, the host team, 69-54.

The Wildcats, paced by Dwight Whaley, connected on 51 per cent of their field goal attempts. They hit 24 shots from the field and missed 23.

Whaley gained his 19-point total on eight field goals and three charity tosses. Ed Martindale was second in scoring with 12 points while Steve Neff tallied 11 markers.

High for the losers was Groves with 18, coming on eight field goals and two charity tosses. McGrew had 12.

THE JACKSON quintet trailed at the end of the first quarter, 12-10. But in the second eight minutes of play they outscored their opponents by eight points to take a 26-20 halftime lead. As the final period started the score was 41-34 with Jackson on top.

The Wildcats committed 10 turnovers and pulled down 29 rebounds.

The Jackson reserves romped to their sixth consecutive win of the season, topping the host unit 40-16. Berne Union made only one field goal in the first half in the preliminary tilt.

High for the young Wildcats was Kenny Martindale with 12 points. O'Dell had 11. Dec. 6 Jackson will host Monroe in a Pickaway County League contest.

Jolly Roger Staubach Awarded Heisman Trophy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Roger Staubach, Navy's exciting quarterback and 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, is a football perfectionist who works as hard keeping his skills sharp as he did in acquiring them.

Almost any afternoon after practice, he can be seen on the field working individually on some phase of his game.

ROGER STAUBACH

He may be taking handoffs under center, sharpening his passing with two or three receivers who stayed to run a few more patterns, or sprinting to build up wind for those loping, easy runs that are so deceptive and have demolished many enemy defenses this fall.

His favorite pastime during summer leave is passing a football with friends.

"You'd think he was a kid trying to make the team instead of being one of the best football players in the country," an observer said one day recently as Jolly Roger sailed through a few extra wind sprints after practice.

The Heisman Trophy board took him out of the class of "one of the best" Tuesday, it voted the long-legged Cincinnati, Ohio junior the outstanding college football player in the country.

In leading Navy to No. 2 national ranking and an 8-1 season which will be climaxed in a postponed game with Army Dec. 7, he has rolled up 1,738 yards passing and running, passed for seven touchdowns and run for eight.

Staubach was chosen by a wide margin — 517 first place votes to 65—over Georgia Tech's versatile senior quarterback Billy Lothridge, who placed second.

He is only the third junior to win the 29-year-old trophy. The others were Felix (Doc) Blanchard at Army in 1945 and Doak

Walker at Southern Methodist in 1948. Neither repeated in his senior year.

The 21-year-old midshipman is scheduled to receive the award from the sponsoring Downtown Athletic Club in New York Dec. 4, the same week he leads the bowl-minded Middies against an Army team he made a shambles of as a sophomore last year.

Staubach, whose precision passes, Houdini escapes from tacklers and scrambling runs have made him one of the most exciting players in college football, reacted with typical modesty to announcement of the award.

"The Heisman Trophy is something you hear about in high school and suddenly it happens to you," he said. "I can hardly believe it... it's something I'll treasure all my life."

End Darryl Hill played football with the Navy Plebes before transferring to Maryland.

Former jockey William Blarretti now trains thoroughbreds for Castle Rock Farm.

Twenty-four players were named in the National League's most valuable player poll but not one catcher drew recognition from the 20 writers who voted.

OU Halfback Wins '63 MVP Award
ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Half back Jim Alberts of Canfield has been voted by his teammates the most valuable player on Ohio University's Mid-American Conference championship football team.

Alberts set a conference rushing mark of 604 yards in the season just ended.

Also announced Tuesday night at the Bobcats annual awards dinner were the co-captains for the 1964 team. They are half-back Ron Curtis of Toledo and Skip Hoover, center linebacker from Pataskala.

Jolly Roger Staubach Awarded Heisman Trophy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Roger Staubach, Navy's exciting quarterback and 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, is a football perfectionist who works as hard keeping his skills sharp as he did in acquiring them.

Almost any afternoon after practice, he can be seen on the field working individually on some phase of his game.

ROGER STAUBACH

He may be taking handoffs under center, sharpening his passing with two or three receivers who stayed to run a few more patterns, or sprinting to build up wind for those loping, easy runs that are so deceptive and have demolished many enemy defenses this fall.

His favorite pastime during summer leave is passing a football with friends.

"You'd think he was a kid trying to make the team instead of being one of the best football players in the country," an observer said one day recently as Jolly Roger sailed through a few extra wind sprints after practice.

The Heisman Trophy board took him out of the class of "one of the best" Tuesday, it voted the long-legged Cincinnati, Ohio junior the outstanding college football player in the country.

In leading Navy to No. 2 national ranking and an 8-1 season which will be climaxed in a postponed game with Army Dec. 7, he has rolled up 1,738 yards passing and running, passed for seven touchdowns and run for eight.

Staubach was chosen by a wide margin — 517 first place votes to 65—over Georgia Tech's versatile senior quarterback Billy Lofthridge, who placed second.

Staubach, whose precision passes, Houdini escapes from tacklers and scrambling runs have made him one of the most exciting players in college football, reacted with typical modesty to announcement of the award.

"The Heisman Trophy is something you hear about in high school and suddenly it happens to you," he said. "I can hardly believe it... it's something I'll treasure all my life."

End Darryl Hill played football with the Navy Plebes before transferring to Maryland.

Former jockey William Balaretti now trains thoroughbreds for Castle Rock Farm.

Walker at Southern Methodist in 1948. Neither repeated in his senior year.

The 21-year-old midshipman is scheduled to receive the award from the sponsoring Downtown Athletic Club in New York Dec. 4, the same week he leads the bowl-minded Middles against an Army team he made a shambles of as a sophomore last year.

Our Sharkskin Is Famous for Wear

Tailored by The House of Worsted-Text

The customer is always right? He certainly is when he buys this imported all-wool sharkskin suit. For this is the suit that wears and wears, looks as fine next year as it does today. We had it tailored by the House of Worsted-Text in a classic silhouette. It's crisp and comfortable, resists wrinkles and creases. Sizes? Look at our chart. We can fit almost everyone in town.

Army-Navy Tilt Set for Dec. 7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Army and Navy will meet in their traditional football battle—but a week later than scheduled—and will bring down the curtain on a 10-day period beginning Thanksgiving that figures to find bowl offers frantically flung around the country.

The decision on the Army Navy game came Tuesday from the Pentagon and overshadowed two other major developments—the naming of Navy's Roger Staubach as the Heisman Trophy winner and Louisiana State University's acceptance of a Bluebonnet Bowl bid.

The Army-Navy game will be pushed back to Dec. 7—Pearl Harbor Day—in deference to the memory of the late President Kennedy. The Pentagon said the Kennedy family intervened so that the annual service classic would not be canceled.

The official statement said the game will be dedicated to his memory.

The announcement further scrambled a puzzling major college bowl picture currently filled in at only three spots—top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl seventh-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and LSU in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Thanksgiving Day program and this Saturday's schedule, including many key games that were postponed from last week due to the assassination of President Kennedy, were expected to wrap up most of the holes. But the Army-Navy postponement complicated the situation.

The second-ranked Middles and Staubach, now dubbed the best player in the country by the Heisman voters, were expected to tangle with Texas in the Cotton Bowl providing they beat Army for the fifth consecutive year.

However, their possible participation in a post-season game may have vanished when the postponement appeared. It is believed the sentiment in the Pentagon for cancellation of the game, plus the lengthening of the regular schedule by a week may rule out a bowl trip for Navy.

It also may rule out a top match-up in the Cotton Bowl. Promoters said Tuesday they will wait until after the Dec. 7 schedule, presumably to get Navy's decision. Their second choice is Pitt, which also plays that Saturday, against Penn State.

Pitt, however, does not have to wait until its final game to make a decision—and might be agreeable to an offer from another major bowl. If Pitt goes elsewhere, then Navy declines, the Cotton Bowl will be lacking a top-flight opponent for the unbeaten and untied Longhorns.

Meanwhile, Illinois and Michigan State prepared for their Big Ten clash, a Thanksgiving Day battle that will fill one of the Rose Bowl spots. Other bowl candidates also will be in action Thursday, as well as Saturday.

The winner of the Big Ten battle between the fourth-ranked Spartans and eighth-ranked Illini at East Lansing, Mich., gets a Rose berth against a Big Six opponent which will come out of two Saturday games, Washington at Washington State and Southern California at UCLA. Washington has the inside track.

Also headlining the Thursday program is the meeting, between Texas and arch rival Texas A&M plus games involving bowl hopefuls Syracuse and North Carolina. The Orange, who meet Notre Dame in New York, could wind up in the Gator Bowl against the Tar Heels, who are at Duke.

The Saturday schedule will fill the West Coast Rose Bowl entry and two Orange and Sugar bowl spots. Auburn could grab an Orange berth with a victory over Alabama, another bowl hopeful, while Mississippi likely will be Sugar Bowl host with a victory over Mississippi State.

A Mississippi State victory, on the other hand, probably would bring the Bulldogs the berth.

Xavier Captains Voted into Legion

CINCINNATI (AP)—Xavier University's Legion of Honor—the highest recognition that can be given to a Musketeer football player—has two new members. They are the team's 1963 co-captains, Ken Lehmann of Louisville, Ky., and Joe Mollmann of Cincinnati.

Both were named to the legion at Tuesday night's football banquet at which Coach Ed Biles also awarded other trophies and 36 letters to varsity football players.

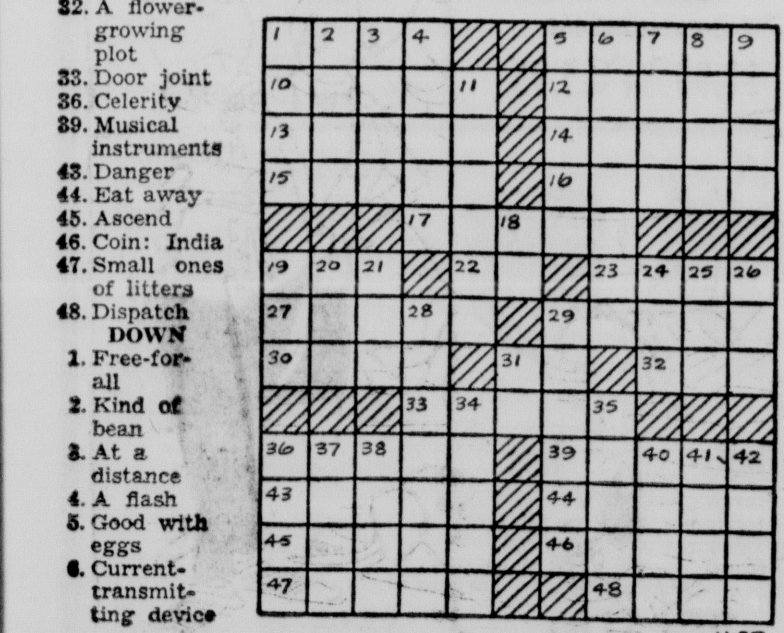

Tom Brennan of Cincinnati and Mike DeFazio of Hamilton were named co-captains of the 1964 Xavier football team.

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be days before the national figures are compiled, but the most authoritative rating service estimates that in the metropolitan New York area, a massive 93 per cent of television-equipped homes were using their sets to watch the funeral services for President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman for the A. C. Nielsen Co. said that if the New York figure proves to be typical of the whole nation, "more people were watching television on Monday than at any other time in the history of the medium."

During the period between Friday and Monday, Nielsen estimates, the average New York television set was in use for a total of 34 hours, more than twice the normal number.

On Sunday morning, normally a light viewing period, an extraordinary number of sets were in use—about 42 per cent. But after the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas, the figure zoomed to a fantastic 77 per cent by 1 p.m.

Tuesday morning, things got back to normal. Commercials came back. Programs began and ended precisely on the hour and the half hour. Game show hosts on taped shows made jokes and laughed heartily at them. The soap opera characters resumed their tangled lives.

Mr. Novak's problems Tuesday night with a difficult student were really quite relaxing because you knew he'd come out of it all right.

Red Skelton's and Martha Raye's antics in a ridiculous Wild West sketch were mildly amusing, but it was good to laugh a little.

"CBS Reports" postponed a program about motion pictures "Flight from Hollywood" which was scheduled for tonight and put together a timely hour in which three presidents discuss the presidency.

Harry S. Truman's remarks were made five years ago in a television interview with Edward R. Murrow. Dwight D. Eisenhower were taken from his on-camera conversations with Walter Cronkite two seasons ago.

John F. Kennedy's contribution was made during a three-network interview in the White House almost a year ago.

ABC's Sunday afternoon "Issues and Answers" guest will be Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. Sen. Barry Goldwater, scheduled to occupy the guest chair, canceled after his decision over the weekend to avoid political talk until after December.

Lawrence Welk will be missing from his Saturday night show this week. The ABC star underwent minor surgery and the boys in the band will take over his chores for the evening. Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 7:30-8:30 EST—"Three Presidents on the Presidency."

Army-Navy Tilt Set for Dec. 7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Army and Navy will meet in their traditional football battle— but a week later than scheduled — and will bring down the curtain on a 10-day period beginning Thanksgiving that figures to find bowl offers frantically flung around the country.

The decision on the Army Navy game came Tuesday from the Pentagon and overshadowed two other major developments—the naming of Navy's Roger Staubach as the Heisman Trophy winner and Louisiana State University's acceptance of a Bluebonnet Bowl bid.

The Army-Navy game will be pushed back to Dec. 7 — Pearl Harbor Day — in deference to the memory of the late President Kennedy. The Pentagon said the Kennedy family intervened so that the annual service classic would not be canceled.

The official statement said the game will be dedicated to his memory.

The announcement further scrambled a puzzling major college bowl picture currently filled in at only three spots — top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl seventh-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and LSU in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Thanksgiving Day program and this Saturday's schedule, including many key games that were postponed from last week due to the assassination of President Kennedy, were expected to wrap up most of the holes. But the Army-Navy postponement complicated the situation.

The second-ranked Middles and Staubach, now dubbed the best player in the country by the Heisman voters, were expected to tangle with Texas in the Cotton Bowl providing they beat Army for the fifth consecutive year.

However, their possible participation in a post-season game may have vanished when the postponement appeared. It is believed the sentiment in the Pentagon for cancellation of the game, plus the lengthening of the regular scheduled by a week may rule out a bowl trip for Navy.

It also may rule out a top match-up in the Cotton Bowl. Promoters said Tuesday they will wait until after the Dec. 7 schedule, presumably to get Navy's decision. Their second choice is Pitt, which also plays that Saturday, against Penn State.

Pitt, however, does not have to wait until its final game to make a decision — and might be agreeable to an offer from another major bowl. If Pitt goes elsewhere, then Navy declines, the Cotton Bowl will be lacking a top-flight opponent for the unbeaten and untied Longhorns.

Meanwhile, Illinois and Michigan State prepared for their Big Ten clash, a Thanksgiving Day battle that will fill one of the Rose Bowl spots. Other bowl candidates also will be in action Thursday, as well as Saturday.

The winner of the Big Ten battle between the fourth-ranked Spartans and eighth-ranked Illini at East Lansing, Mich., gets a Rose berth against a Big Six opponent which will come out of two Saturday games, Washington at Washington State and Southern California at UCLA.

Also headlining the Thursday program is the meeting between Texas and arch rival Texas A&M plus games involving bowl hopefuls Syracuse and North Carolina. The Orange, who meet Notre Dame in New York, could wind up in the Gator Bowl against the Tar Heels, who are at Duke.

The Saturday schedule will fill the West Coast Rose Bowl entry and two Orange and Sugar bowl spots. Auburn could grab an Orange berth with a victory over Alabama, another bowl hopeful, while Mississippi likely will be Sugar Bowl host with a victory over Mississippi State.

A Mississippi State victory, on the other hand, probably would bring the Bulldogs the berth.

Xavier Captains Voted into Legion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Xavier University's Legion of Honor—the highest recognition that can be given to a Musketeer football player—has two new members. They are the team's 1963 co-captains, Ken Lehmann of Louisville, Ky., and Joe Mollmann of Cincinnati.

Both were named to the legion at Tuesday night's football banquet at which Coach Ed Biles also awarded other trophies and 36 letters to varsity football players.

Tom Brennan of Cincinnati and Mike DeFazio of Hamilton were named co-captains of the 1964 Xavier football team.

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be days before the national figures are compiled, but the most authoritative rating service estimates that in the metropolitan New York area, a massive 93 per cent of television-equipped homes were using their sets to watch the funeral services for President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman for the A. C. Nielsen Co. said that if the New York figure proves to be typical of the whole nation, "more people were watching television on Monday than at any other time in the history of the medium."

During the period between Friday and Monday, Nielsen estimates, the average New York television set was in use for a total of 34 hours, more than twice the normal number.

On Sunday morning, normally a light viewing period, an extraordinary number of sets were in use—about 42 per cent. But after the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas, the figure zoomed to a fantastic 77 per cent by 1 p.m.

Tuesday morning, things got back to normal. Commercials came back. Programs began and ended precisely on the hour and the half hour. Game show hosts on taped shows made jokes and laughed heartily at them. The soap opera characters resumed their tangled lives.

Mr. Novak's problems Tuesday night with a difficult student were really quite relaxing because you knew he'd come out of it all right.

Red Skelton's and Martha Raye's antics in a ridiculous Wild West sketch were mildly amusing, but it was good to laugh a little.

"CBS Reports" postponed a program about motion pictures "Flight from Hollywood" which was scheduled for tonight and put together a timely hour in which three presidents discuss the presidency.

Harry S. Truman's remarks were made five years ago in a television interview with Edward R. Murrow. Dwight D. Eisenhower's were taken from his on-camera conversations with Walter Cronkite two seasons ago.

John F. Kennedy's contribution was made during a three-network interview in the White House almost a year ago.

ABC's Sunday afternoon "Issues and Answers" guest will be Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. Sen. Barry Goldwater, scheduled to occupy the guest chair, canceled after his decision over the weekend to avoid political talk until after December.

Lawrence Welk will be missing from his Saturday night show this week. The ABC star underwent minor surgery and the boys in the band will take over his chores for the evening. Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 7:30-8:30 EST— "Three Presidents on the Presidency."

Stocks Firm Is Slated for Liquidation

NEW YORK (AP) — Ira Haupt and Co., a 36-year-old Wall Street securities firm, will go out of business in the first liquidation ever arranged by the New York Stock Exchange and carried out under exchange supervision.

Chieftains of the exchange announced a liquidation plan "beginning promptly". It calls for the exchange and four large New York City banks to advance a maximum of $36 million to protect Haupt's 20,000 customers.

Haupt was suspended from dealing on the exchange Wednesday because its capital requirements failed to meet exchange standards. The firm landed in financial trouble through a bankrupted firm by a large customer, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil and Refining Co. of Bayonne, N.J.

Haupt has remained silent on all developments since the suspension.

The financial district viewed the liquidation plan as absolutely essential to bolster investor confidence in the stock market and also as further evidence that the exchange community can regulate itself adequately.

There was no immediate indication that Haupt customers would in any way be reimbursed for possible losses sustained by being unable to trade their securities Thursday or Friday when market prices dropped severely.

Five Points MYF Has Meeting

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Five Points Methodist Church met Sunday evening at the church.

Barbara Tallman, president, welcomed visiting groups from the Mt. Sterling and Darby churches. Scripture was read by Jim Armentrout.

The program consisted of slides of India shown by a Dr. Watson and his wife. Mrs. Watson demonstrated the various kinds of dress in India.

Following a period of group singing, refreshments were served to the more than 80 persons in attendance.

of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Keaton, 539 E. Union St., spent a "satisfactory" night, according to officials at Berger Hospital early today.

They reported the scalp laceration seemed to be his most serious injury. A cut on the left hand was considered minor.

A young witness, William Michael Hoffman, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. William Hoffman of 458 Dearborn Ave., told city police he and Keaton were racing north on their bicycles.

ACCORDING to Hoffman's account, the injured youth apparently did not see the train, which was barely moving, until it was too late to avoid striking it. There were no brakes on the bike, officers said.

The engineer of the train, W. N. Martin, said he saw the youth approaching, but did not see Keaton's bike strike the freight car. The switch train was moving east.

The accident was investigated by Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Dixie Watters. The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department assisted.

Scouts Plan Hootenanny At CHS Gym

Cubs, Scouts, Explorers, their families, friends of Scouting and the general public will find doors open and free admission at 1:45 p. m. Saturday at the Circleville High School Gymnasium.

Hootenanny BSA and Indian Dancing will set the stage for the Adventure Round-Up Jamboree program which will begin promptly at 2:30 p. m.

Pickaway District Cubs, Scouts and Explorers who have recruited two or more new members each must report at the Jamboree information booth in the gym prior to 2:15 p. m. in order to receive their special reserved seats. Recruiters will meet Astronaut Neil Armstrong, featured guest at the Jamboree.

Charles O. Hart, physical arrangements chairman requests that all unit flags and American flags with bases be at the gym by 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Harry Diehl, Pickaway District Scouting chairman, announced that the Adventure Round-Up recruiting to date has exceeded last year's total membership increase by 18 per cent, a new all-time high for Pickaway District.

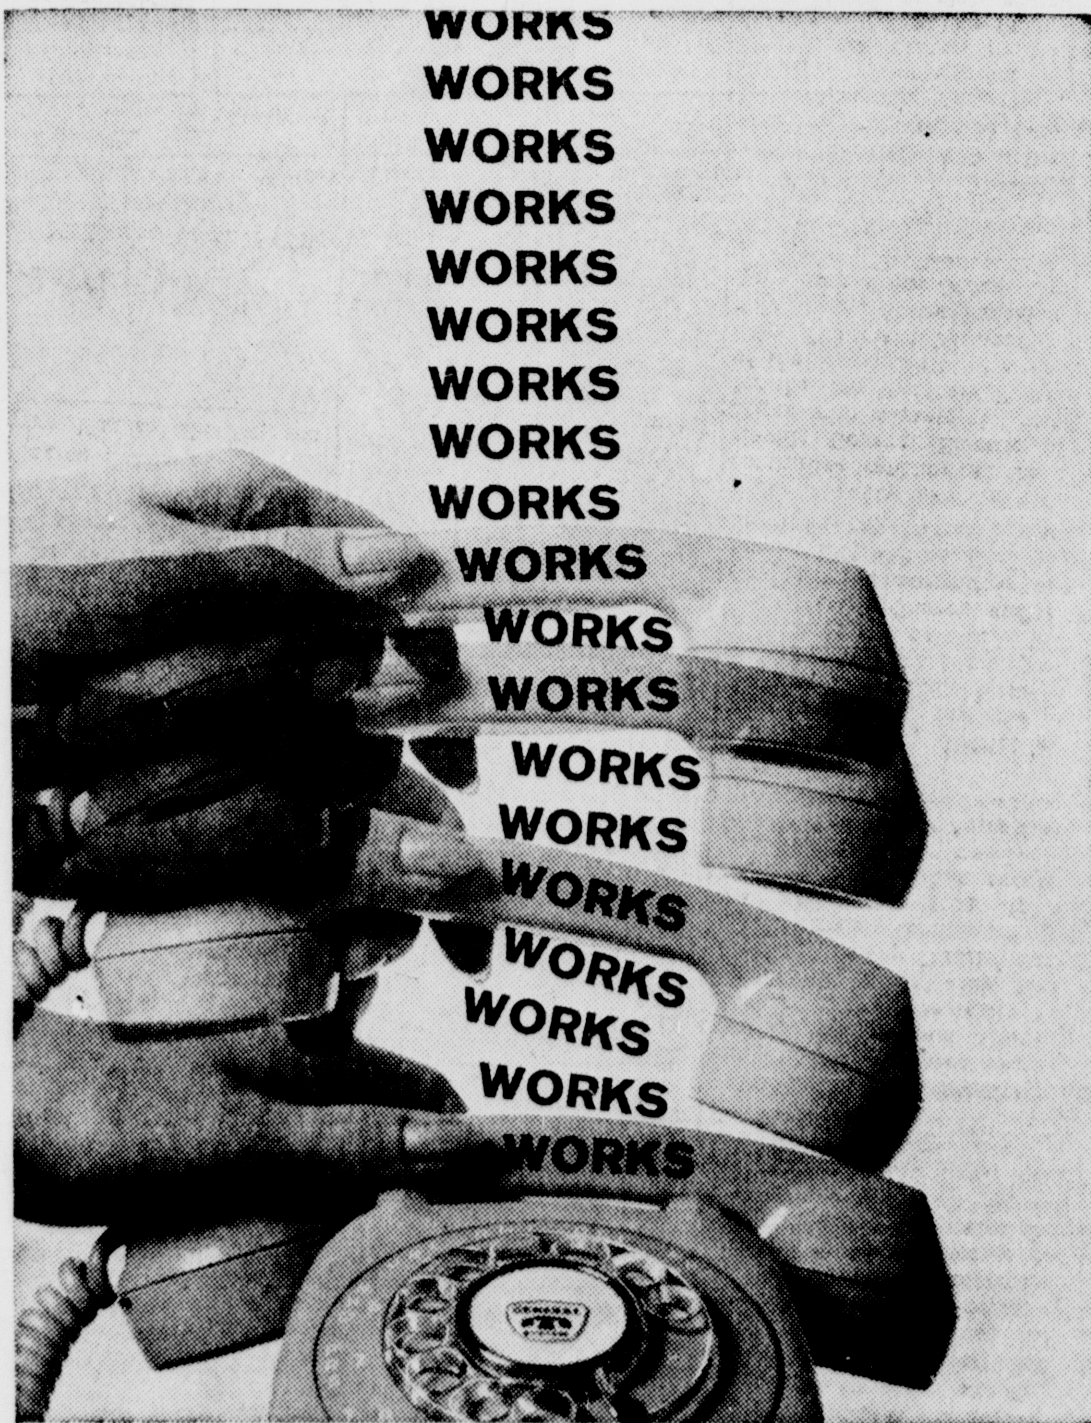

Doyle Painter, district commissioner, noted that the next Roundtable for Cub, Scout and Explorer Leaders and unit committees will be Dec. 4 in the Presbyterian Church and the final district committee meeting for 1963 will be Dec. 16 in the Lutheran Parish House.

The Monday evening district committee meeting at the Circleville General Electric plant began with a memorial service for the late Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the only United States President to have been a Boy Scout.
